Tornadoes, storms cause death, extensive damage in East, South

4 dead, 9 missing as charter fishing boat capsizes

By The Associated Press

Several persons were killed Monday as tornadoes and severe thunderstorms swept a large area of the eastern and southern United States, toppling trees, capsizing boats and damaging homes and stores.

At least four persons died when a chartered fishing boat capsized during a thunderstorm on Cheasapeake Bay and nine were missing. The National Weather Service said winds gusted to 98 miles per hour at Norfolk, Va.

Storm-toppled trees killed one person each in North Carolina and Georgia. And in Tennessee, a carpenter was killed in Chattanooga when a tornado destroyed the house in which he was working.

"It was a freak thing because trees were falling everywhere," said Georgia Civil Defense spokesman Rufus Barber.

Officials in towns scattered throughout Georgia reported power lines downed by falling tree limbs, roofs collapsed or torn off buildings and windows broken out of stores and houses.

A Carolina Power and Light spokesman in Asheville, N.C., reported between 20,000 and 30,000 customers were without service in Haywood and Buncombe Counties.

In a three-hour period as the storm-causing cold front passed through the Southeast, temperatures plunged from 94 to 67 in Athens, Ga., and from 91 to 68 in Atlanta.

The weather service said an unofficial count showed 30 severe thunderstorms and 17 tornadoes Monday. One tornado was reported in California.

Despite warnings of a thunderstorm, a 42-foot fishing boat ventured out onto Chesapeake Bay and was dumped on its starboard side by a 10-to-13-foot wave, the Coast Guard said. At least four persons drowned and nine were missing.

The remaining 14 persons aboard the charter Dixie Lee II were rescued by another charter boat during a storm in which winds gusted up to 98 miles per hour, according to the National Weather Service.

The Coast Guard resumed a search for the missing today with helicopters and patrol boats covering an eight-milesquare area of choppy water, with waves reported at about five feet.

The dead were identified as Audrey Stiff, 36, Portsmouth, Va.; Evelyn B. Lee, 43, Norfolk; Capt. William H. Lewis, 70, Norfolk; and Polly Clark, 57, Baltimore.

The Dixie Lee II had left its Norfolk boathouse Monday despite the storm forecast because "there was no mention of the huge winds," said the boathouse owner.

It capsized at a point about five miles north of here and three miles east of the Hampton Roads Bridge-Tunnel, which spans the bay between Norfolk and Hampton.

One of the survivors, 28-year-old Malvis Ware of Norfolk, said "it started raining and everybody pulled in their lines. Then it started raining harder. Everybody started screaming and running to the other side of the boat because it was raining so hard."

She said the next thing she knew the Dixie Lee II had capsized.

"When I got in the water, I realized I had to get to the top. I was hoping and praying I would come up outside the boat. When I came up, I thought even though I was still alive I wasn't going to make it."

She said she clung to the boat for about 45 minutes before being rescued by the Joyce Lee.

Diane Harrison, whose family owns the boathouse where the Dixie Lee II was berthed, said the "weather was beautiful" before the fast-moving storm hit the area.

The National Weather Service said winds gusted to 98 miles per hour at Norfolk International Airport during the height of the storm.

"Fishermen go out if it rains, storms or thunderstorms," Mrs. Harrison said. "They're die-hards."

Paul Holland, captain of the Joyce Lee, said he passed the Dixie Lee II on his way out of the bay Monday afternoon and spotted debris from the capsized boat as he was returning about 5 p.m.

Holland said three of the survivors were hanging onto debris and the others clung to the boat.

"One guy said they were sailing and the wind started catching the boat. They asked the captain if he was going in and he told them, 'No.' And then about five minutes later, the wind caught the boat and flipped it over," Holland said.

"A couple of fellows said they were holding onto one or two of the people, but had to let go. And another guy said he was holding onto a lady with his belt wrapped around her, but it started choking him and he had to let her go," Holland said.

The capsizing of the Dixie Lee II was the worst boating accident in Chesapeake Bay since August 1955, when 14 persons drowned in the Maryland waters in heavy seas. That accident involved a three-masted wooden schooner, the Marvel, which also had 27 persons aboard.

Five killed, four injured as plane plunges into Upland apartment complex

By TONY AULT
PB Staff Writer

Five persons were killed and four others were injured early today when a twin-engine plane crashed into an apartment complex at 1061 W. Springfield St., Upland.

Witnesses reported that prior to the crash, the pilot had started to land at Upland High School but apparently saw students below and pulled up.

A spokesman at Tate Motors confirmed the plane was owned by that firm and that five persons were scheduled to depart from Cable Airport at 7 a.m.

They were William Miller of La Palma, the pilot, Tim Tate and a woman friend, and Dale and Sue Gibson of Newport Beach.

Those injured in the incident — all apartment dwellers — were admitted to San Antonio Community Hospital. They were identified as Fran Dona, 31, admitted with cuts and abrasions; Richard Rothchild, 20, treated and transferred to the burn center at San Bernardino County Hospital; Kenneth Black, admitted with burns; and Louis Humphrey, admitted with undetermined injuries.

One of the injured was reported to have run to assist the pilot. Paramedics said the man suffered burns over 60 per cent of his body. One woman suffered injuries when knocked off a roof balcony by the explosion, they added.

Witnesses reported the pilot started to land at the Upland High School athletic field, but saw students and pulled up. The plane then flew northwest and started to bank to the right and dove into the rear apartment of the complex on Springfield Street.

Brooks Randall, supervisor of the apartments, gave this account:

"I was outside when I heard a plane circling around. It was making an awful noise. He made two passes over the apartments and then came in from the southeast, banking right.

"The right wing and engine crashed into the corner of the apartment. I saw two people on the roof over the side. The man, wearing only his undershorts, jumped off the building about 10 seconds before the explosion.

"I saw a man run towards the aircraft. He tried to help. But when he got there, the plane exploded.

"I saw Fran Dona, who was on the roof get knocked over by the force or concussion of the explosion."

Randall said he had shouted at the people standing near the aircraft to get away from it because it was going to explode.

"I shouted at the one man who ran towards the plane to get back, but just then it went up in a ball of flames. He was inside the flames."

Mr. and Mrs. A.D. Wilson, who live in a corner apartment at Springfield Street and Mulberry Avenue about 300 feet from where the plane crashed, said they were outside turning off their sprinklers when the crash happened.

Mrs. Wilson said, "I heard this terrible roar. We were trying to place him (the aircraft)."

Wilson said, "He flew around three times in short circles . . . it was a beautiful white plane. It came up over the top of the wires, flew northwest and then dove downward and crashed into the apartments.

"Then there was a ball of fire and an explosion." The fire from the early-morning crash of a twin-engine aircraft completely destroyed the two-story apartment at 1061 Springfield St., Upland.

The fire spread into several apartments in the building and to the apartment complex west of the crash site.

The explosion which followed the crash blew out windows in the surrounding area.

At least one car, parked between the two buildings, was destroyed. Firemen managed to save several other cars in a carport near the crash site.

Firemen estimated that the total damage "will run into the thousands of dollars" but that the exact loss has yet to be determined.

Federal Aviation Administration inspectors rushed to the Upland area this morning.

SHOCKED RESIDENTS

A woman is comforted as she stands outside of an apartment complex in northern Upland this morning following the crash and explosion of a twin-engine plane which killed the five aboard and injured several persons on the ground.

Sound of plane described seconds before it crashed

Two Upland residents described the sound of a twinengine plane before it crashed in a residential neighborhood this morning.

Verda Burnett said that she heard the plane engine sputter as it passed over her home.

"It appeared," she said, "that the pilot was attempting to land at a nearby school yard."

Linda Rizzardi who lives at 1049 Pine St. said she heard the plane circle twice. Then there was a big thud.

"The plane had a low, buzzing sound," she said. From her house she saw a lot of black smoke, and heard popping sounds as flames burned a nearby transformer.

Still unknown which prison gets Mitchell

WASHINGTON (AP) — H.R. Haldeman and John N. Mitchell are spending the final two weeks at their homes, getting their affairs in order before going to prison.

The two men, once top lieutenants of Richard M. Nixon, are to report by noon June 22 to a federal institution to begin serving the 2½ to 8-year prison terms imposed in 1975 for their roles in covering up the Watergate scandal.

When the two are behind bars the criminal proceedings that began with the Watergate burglary and peaked with Nixon's resignation will be at an end.

San Diego teacher strike

Defy court order

SAN DIEGO (AP)—The San Diego Teachers Association defied a court order today and struck for a second day, demanding higher wages and smaller class sizes.

The strike, with only two weeks left in the current school year, kept an estimated 3,500 of the city's 5,800 teachers off the job Monday.

But school officials said substitutes, volunteers and administrators kept all schools open. Pupil absenteeism was said to be slightly above the 10 to 15 per cent normally recorded.

Association spokesmen disputed the claim, saying the day was spent babysitting students and showing films.

Hugh Boyle, association president, said teachers hoped Superior Court Judge Jack Levitt would deny a temporary injunction sought by school officials to halt the walkout.

On Monday, the district got a temporary restraining order from Superior Court Judge Wesley Buttermore.

But hours later, Boyle told a rally of 2,000 teachers at Balboa Park that Judge Buttermore's order would be ignored, at least until Judge Levitt ruled on the injunction request.

The association, which has 3,600 members but negotiates for all teachers in the system, wants 11 per cent pay raises for the coming school year.

School officials claim they cannot make a salary offer until after costs of impending court desegregation orders are determined and until the carryover from the present budget becomes known June 30.

The association also is asking a cut in the number of pupils per class; a system in which teachers would have a voice in evaluating administrators; reduction of the school teaching year from 177 to 175 days; and third-party binding arbitration in grievance rulings.

Ontario city council

Bingo rhubarb looms

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

The emotion-charged issue of bingo legalization comes before the Ontario City Council once again tonight at 7.

Bingo discussions in the past have dissolved into religious and personal conflicts between members of the audience and City Council.

Although the June 1976 primary election ballot showed 68 per cent of the 11,980 Ontario residents who voted actually supported legalization of bingo within the city, the state gives authority to local municipalities to legalize or not legalize the game for charitable organizations.

With such authority, legalization of bingo was defeated at the March 16 meeting of the council when council members Beecher Medlin, Robert Abel and Faye Dastrup voted against it. When the matter was re-opened at the April 19 council session, Medlin was absent and the two opponents present came under heavy criticism from residents.

Ontario residents accused the two and Medlin — all members of the Mormon church which opposes bingo — of voting their religious preference rather than "the will of the people." Bingo supporters — wearing "Yes, Bingo!" and "Support Bingo, Keep Grandma Off The Streets" buttons — charged the council had allowed bingo discussions to become "a religious war" and ignored the mandate at the polls last summer.

Although the two defended themselves against the allegations and asserted their church had no role in their votes, they also added that their positions probably would not change in future discussions on the matter.

There is no indication there is a softening of the three council members or the supporters who seem to outnumber opponents at this stage. City Atty. Sam Crowe has re-submitted the ordinance legalizing bingo in the agenda information packet, but attached no comments or recommendation to that ordinance.

Supporters are threatening a referendum election if the council does not relent. The election could cost the city at least $28,000.

If successful, the bingo supporters would draft the language of the ordinance governing bingo and would only be required to meet minimum state requirements on the games. The regulations would be determined by whomever drafted the referendum language and could not be changed by the City Council. The city would then be locked into whatever regulations are established by referendum, and have to contend with any resulting problems of policing or enforcement because of awkward wording. The only way those regulations could be changed is with another costly referendum election.

Should one of the present bingo opponents join Mayor Paul Treadway and Councilman Homer Briggs to approve legalization of bingo, the city would have ultimate authority over the playing of such games within the city limits.

Snyder does it up Brown

Tomorrow returns today

BURBANK (AP) — Tom Snyder has brought his "Tomorrow" show from New York back to the California studio where the late-night talk show began three years ago.

His first show had a California theme—an hour-long interview by Snyder of Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.

The pair touched on numerous subjects during the wideranging show that was aired early today. Brown said little new, but reiterated a number of statements he has made in the past.

One subject that didn't come up was Brown's recent veto of a death penalty bill enacted by the legislature. The issue is now back before legislators for an attempt to override the veto and enact the bill into law.

The closest the two came to the death penalty was Brown's comment on the role of industry in Los Angeles. He said, "Some people would build gas chambers if they thought it would give them jobs."

Fred Bronson, an NBC spokesman, said there was no effort to avoid the death penalty topic. In fact, he went on, "Tom will probably be upset that he didn't ask him about it."

Snyder asked Brown if there was any bitterness between Brown and President Carter, against whom Brown ran last year in several of the late Democratic primaries.

Brown responded by praising Carter for the President's accessibility, saying, "The lines of communication are open. That wasn't always the case with the previous administration."

School busing case

Controversial poll entered

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nearly half of those white parents queried in a survey commissioned by the city Board of Education do not support desegregation of the public schools.

The survey also indicates that many white families say they would move out of the district or enroll their children in private schools if a mandated citywide desegregation plan were implemented.

Superior Court Judge Paul Egly reluctantly took the survey under submission Monday during hearings into the school district's desegregation plans, but gave no indication whether he would accept it as evidence.

According to the survey, 22 per cent of the white respondents indicated they were opposed to desegregation of public schools and another 23 per cent said they were strongly opposed.

Some 43 per cent said they favored desegregation, six per cent were strongly in favor of it and another six per cent were not sure.

Among blacks, the survey indicated 73 per cent favored desegregation, and only 22 per cent were opposed or strongly opposed.

Egly appeared disturbed by the survey, and said there are "technical problems" with using survey results as evidence because they contain "opinions based on data that is not retrievable and is not subject to cross-examination."

The judge questioned attorneys for the school board concerning the survey's recent commissioning — well after the hearings had begun.

"Why didn't the board do this in advance?" Egly asked Winchester Cooley, an attorney for the board.

"There is something cynical about a survey done after the fact to justify what the board has already done," he continued.

Cooley maintained the survey was part of the board's effort to comply with the state supreme court's mandate when it ordered the district desegregated in a "reasonable and feasible" manner.

Claremont's mayor

Urges 2nd look at transit needs

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

Claremont Mayor Bertye Smith Monday urged the Los Angeles County Transportation Commission to defer any action on a subcommittee recommendation that would keep a Claremont-Pomona-San Dimas-La Verne transportation system for the aged and handicapped from being funded.

Mrs. Smith requested in a letter the commission "refer this entire issue back to the Technical Advisory Committe for more intensive analysis and detailed justification."

Claremont city officials will attend the commission meeting Wednesday afternoon when 26 agencies will ask why their requests for local transportation funds totaling $3 million were rejected by the subcommittee.

When the state Legislature enacted the Transportation Act, it provided that up to 5 per cent of local transportation funds may be made available for claims.

Such funds are available only for the next three fiscal years.

Mrs. Smith said the four area cities in their request for $70,000 addressed the four following topics: A description of the unmet transportation needs in the area; An inventory of existing services; A description of the proposed service, including its impact on existing services; and an explanation of how the proposed service responds to the unmet need.

At its May 31 meeting, the subcommittee — composed mainly of bus operators — adopted a resolution which if approved by the county Transportation Commission would eliminate the program for Los Angeles County for fiscal 1977-78.

Mrs. Smith said she was under the impression "that our proposal adequately addressed the information requested."

She complained that for the subcommittee to revise criteria for the review of proposals in midstream without notification to the submitting agencies is "unconscionable."

She said she understood the state Legislature adopted the program to establish a mechanism to provide funding for communities to meet transportation needs "that are not or cannot be met by the existing systems."

She said it appears the subcommittee does not care to acknowledge the fact that such needs may exist "with the hope that if they do not acknowledge this need, it will disappear."

The four area cities had proposed to buy seven vans, all equipped with lift gates and wheelchair tiedowns, and contract with Pomona Valley Community Services, a non-profit corporation, for a specialized transportation system for the elderly and handicapped.

The proposal estimated the four cities have about 18,000 persons 60 years or older, and about 27,000 between 16 and 64 years old who are handicapped.

"The scope of existing services leaves a significant unfilled gap in the transportation needs of the area's elderly and handicapped," the proposal said.

"Fully ambulatory seniors encounter the problems of the intense competition for Get About's service, the limitations of Claremont's intracity dial-a-ride, the high cost of taxis, and the difficulty of reaching RTD's established pickup points," the proposal read.

The vans would be used to provide totally accessible service prescheduled by 24 hours to the handicapped and seniors throughout the area.

The vehicles would be publicly owned and controlled through a joint powers agreement.

The proposed budget for the program includes the $70,000 plus $40,000 in operating revenue, $70,000 from general fund money, and $95,000 from Senate Bill 283 funds available through Caltrans.

State briefs

Board criticized

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Pasadena school district has been criticized for circulating a letter indicating the district's integration plan might be changed in the near future.

U.S. District Judge Manuel L. Real said Monday the district had "misrepresented" to parents that a "freedom of choice" plan is before him when it is not.

Real scheduled a July 11 hearing to determine the next step in the integration case.

Church vs state

FRESNO (AP) — A Fresno judge's policy of sentencing misdemeanor defendants to attend church has been declared unconstitutional.

Superior Court Judge Hollis G. Best ruled Monday that the practice violates the constitutional guarantee of separation of church and state.

Municipal Court Judge Hugh W. Goodwin, a devout Baptist, has created a furor during his year and a half in office by giving more than 200 people the option of attending church instead of going to jail.

Helter Skelter

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A psychiatrist testifying at the retrial of Leslie Van Houten says the 27-year-old woman "is now more real" than she was six years ago when under the influence of Charles Manson.

Dr. Michael Coburn, speaking Monday, was the fourth and last psychiatrist to testify in Miss Van Houten's defense.

Superior Court Judge Edward A. Hinz Jr. curtailed the psychiatric testimony Monday. Hinz also refused to give Miss Van Houten's lawyer access to Manson's medical and psychiatric records.

Miss Van Houten is charged with murdering grocers Leno and Rosemary LaBianca and conspiring in the gory slayings of actress Sharon Tate and four others in August 1969.

Attorney Maxwell Keith said it was essential to know if Manson was mentally ill when he led his followers on a trail of murder that year.

Kidporn

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Production or distribution of pornographic films using children would be a felony under a measure sent to the Senate floor.

Sen. Robert Presley, D-Riverside, said his bill puts the proposed new anti-pornography controls in California's child labor law rather than obscenity laws because "this is the best way, the simplest way to control it without getting into a lot of First Amendment complications."

By a 12-0 vote Monday, the Senate Finance Committee approved the measure after very brief debate.

Presley said the bill would not be a total solution to the problem of pornographic films involving children in California because some of them are produced outside the state.

But, he said, "Los Angeles is the pornographic capital of the U.S., and San Francisco isn't far behind. This is a very big chunk of the problem."

The bill would provide sentences of three, four or five years in state prison for knowingly employing anyone under the age of 14 in a film or production of still pictures depicting sexual acts.

Laetrile

SAN DIEGO (AP) — U. S. District Court Judge Edward J. Schwartz says the Food and Drug Administration, not federal courts, should decide if Laetrile prevents cancer.

The ruling came Monday in a suit by a Santa Rosa truck driver who was among the first persons to receive a federal court order allowing the legal importation of the apricot-kernel extract from Mexico.

Michael O. Carnohan, 53, was granted permission six months ago to bring limited supplies of Laetrile over the border for use by his father, Ray Carnohan of San Diego. The elder Carnohan died of cancer a few weeks later despite using the substance.

The younger Carnohan said in his latest suit that he now wants Laetrile for himself because he believes there is evidence it can prevent cancer.

The FDA bans shipment of Laetrile into the United States under normal circumstances because it considers the compound useless in cancer therapy.

In recent months, a number of states have enacted legislation permitting the use of Laetrile.

In a related development Monday, a leading official of the American Cancer Society predicted Laetrile will be given a clinical trial nationally using human patients.

"We can't sit back, even on solid science. We've got to test it," said Dr. Frank Rauscher, the vice president for research for the American Cancer Society and former director of the National Cancer Institute.

ROYAL RIDE

Britain's Queen Elizabeth II leaves Buckingham Palace today in her ornate golden coach en route to St. Paul's Cathedral to attend a thanksgiving service in honor of her Silver Jubilee. Millions of Britons turned out for the celebration.

ARRIVES FOR SERVICE

A smiling Queen Elizabeth enters St. Paul's Cathedral. Pomp and ceremony marked the 25th year of her reign with the greatest outpouring of patriotic fervor the troubled island has witnessed in a quarter century.

Elizabeth's Silver Jubilee

Britain in patriotic outpouring

LONDON (AP) — Millions of cheering Britons and foreign visitors jammed London today as Queen Elizabeth II and her husband Prince Philip rode in the golden state coach to celebrate her Silver Jubilee at a thanksgiving service in St. Paul's Cathedral.

The queen wore pink. Her husband was in the uniform of an Admiral of the Fleet.

Riding horseback behind them was Prince Charles, the heir to the throne, in the uniform of the Welsh Guards.

The queen's 2½-mile route from Buckingham Palace to Sir Christopher Wren's 267-year-old cathedral in the heart of London was lined six-deep by dawn. Hundreds spent a wet, chilly night on the sidewalks to get the best places.

Rain alternated with bright sunshine during the morning, but the rain stopped before Princess Anne, the queen's daughter, and her husband, Capt. Mark Phillips, left the palace in the first open carriage.

Others members of the royal family followed in carriages and coaches. More than 3,000 troops and 10 bands escorted the royal processions.

The state coach stopped briefly once during the procession, at Temple Bar, the entrance to the City, as the financial square mile in the heart of Greater London is called.

There, in an ancient ritual, the Lord Mayor of London extended the Pearl Sword given to the City by Queen Elizabeth I, and Queen Elizabeth II leaned through the opened door of the coach to touch the sword in proof of her sovereignty over the City.

As the state coach left the Temple Bar, a 62-gun salute began from the Tower of London.

During the 50-minute thanksgiving service, the bishop of London, the Rt. Rev. Gerald Ellison, read an act of dedication: "O Lord and heavenly Father, the exalter of the humble, the strength of thy chosen,

"Bless, we beseech thee, thy servant Elizabeth, our anointed and consecrated queen."

The archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Donald Coggan, delivered the jubilee sermon and expressed thanks "for the way God has guided us and the leadership which he has given us in our royal house."

But Dr. Coggan added: "If this service is to leave a mark of permanence on the lives of those who, near and far, have shared in it, it must lead to an act of penitence for all that has made our life as a nation or as individuals tawdry and unworthy."

The crowds shrugged off the rain, calling it "Queen's weather." It also rained in 1953 during her coronation, they recalled.

The jubilee celebration commemorates Elizabeth's accession to the throne on Feb. 6, 1952, following the death of her father, King George VI. The celebration, like that of the queen's birthday each year, was delayed until June in the hope of good weather.

Over the heads of the waiting crowds hung thousands of British flags and miles of bunting. The red, white and blue was repeated in cities, towns and villages throughout the country.

Windows of shops and homes displayed portraits of the queen and her husband. Many homes also flew the Union Jack.

President Carter's son Chip and his wife arrived Monday night to represent the President.

Also on hand were representatives of Commonwealth countries in London for an eight-day summit meeting starting Wednesday. But President Idi Amin, whose presence was not wanted by the British government, did not leave Uganda until today, and the broadcast announcement of his departure indicated he could not arrive before Wednesday.

The queen opened the jubilee celebration Monday night by putting a torch to a 30-foot bonfire in Windsor Great Park. Within 15 minutes a network of 102 other hilltop fires across Britain were blazing, and satellite television showed a fire being lit in New Zealand, a British Commonwealth country on the other side of the world.

Police estimated more than 300,000 persons were in the park below Windsor Castle for the bonfire and the fireworks and ox-roasting that followed.

The jubilee celebration was protested as a throwback to the days of Empire by the tiny British Communist Party, young radicals to the left of the Communists and a handful of disgruntled intellectuals.

"It's all for the tourists," said the left-wing New Statesman magazine.

But the grumbling was drowned out by the delighted squeals of children at block parties, the crackle of the celebratory bonfires, the fireworks, the bands and the cheers for the queen.

Business to spend more, but less than expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Businesses have increased their 1977 spending predictions on plants and equipment only slightly in the last three months, the Commerce Department reported today.

The quarterly report said businesses expect to spend $135.3 billion on capital spending for the year, an increase of six-tenths of a per cent over their estimates in March.

The new spending estimate is 12.3 per cent above capital spending in 1976 or 7.5 per cent after accounting for inflation.

Administration economists have been counting on businesses to give the economy a boost by spending more on new plants and equipment.

Secretary of Commerce Juanita Kreps said in advance of today's report " it is as eagerly awaited as any statistic in a long time."

The survey tells how much businesses spend on such things as factories, machinery and other productive facilities.

Capital spending constitutes the basic underpinning of economic growth because it expands job opportunities and provides the greater efficiencies necessary to hold down prices.

Today's report said businesses increased their capital spending by 4 per cent in the first quarter of 1977. It said they plan increases of 3.3 per cent in the second quarter, 1.8 per cent in the third quarter and 1.6 per cent in the fourth quarter.

The largest increases in spending plans were in the motor vehicles, electrical machinery, petroleum and primary metals industries.

For all industries, total capital spending in 1975 was $112.78 billion, rising to $120.49 billion in 1976 and to $135.34 billion in 1977, according to the latest estimate.

Manufacturing industries plan a 14 per cent increase in 1977. The increase is 16 percent for durable goods, 15 per cent for motor vehicles, 20 per cent for other durables and 19 per cent for electrical machinery.

Among gains in the nondurable goods industry are 30 per cent for rubber and 18 per cent for petroleum.

In nonmanufacturing, airlines planned an increase of 34 per cent; gas utilities, 26 per cent; electric utilities, 16 per cent and communications, 15 per cent.

Mining firms expect increases of 10 per cent and commercial firms 8 per cent.

The report said actual expenditures in the first quarter were about $1 billion higher than expected three months earlier and second quarter plans were raised about $1.8 billion, both measured at an annual rate.

The last report, issued in March, said businesses expected to spend $134.58 billion on plants and equipment this year, 11.7 per cent above last year's figures. That amounts to a 7 per cent increase after inflation, and economists said then that it might be enough to meet administration growth targets.

Mrs. Kreps, speaking in New York last Thursday, said, "Business fixed investment now emerges as a key sector to which we must look for our strong growth over the next few quarters."

Many other areas of the economy are near their limit for growth, particularly residential construction and motor vehicle sales, she said.

The Commerce Department said Monday that consumer installment credit continued growing at near-record levels last month, rising $2.66 billion.

But Mrs. Kreps says "consumer spending generally will be constrained by the desire of consumers to rebuild their savings from the unusually low levels of the first of the year."

British counter spy chief of WW2 dies at 86

OXFORD, England (AP) — Sir John Masterman, who masterminded the sabotage of Germany's spy system in Britain during World War II, died Monday at an Oxford nursing home. He was 86.

Masterman during the war was deputy head of MI5, the British counter-espionage department, and headed the Twenty Committee which fed false information to the Germans through double agents. The committee took its name from the Roman 20, XX, or double cross.

"Sir John's work totally sabotaged German espionage in Britain," Historian Hugh Trevor-Roper wrote.

"By means of the double agent system we actively ran and controlled the German espionage system in this country," Masterman wrote in 1972 in his book "The Double Cross System".

The group's crowning achievement was to convince Berlin that the Allied invasion in June 1944 would take place in the Calais area. The German High Command stationed seven divisions in the Pas de Calais area and kept them there for some time after the Normandy landings 150 miles to the southwest.

Another coup was to deceive the Germans into changing the range of flying bombs and rockets so that many missed London.

The son of a British navy captain, Masterman was a brilliant scholar and a good athlete who graduated from Oxford with first honors in history. He was studying in Germany at the start of World War I and was interned there for the duration of the fighting.

After World War II he became provost of Oxford's Worcester College and also was an adviser to various government departments. He retired in 1961.

Custody fight over leukemia victim, 3

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (AP) — The state is fighting for legal custody of 3-year-old Nikki Decker, whose mother is treating her leukemia with the controversial substance Laetrile and a special diet. Doctors want to use chemotherapy.

A custody hearing sought by the state's social and economic services agency was postponed Monday until June 17.

"I am not saying their program (chemotherapy) is wrong," the child's mother, Elizabeth Finn of Gainesville, said. "I just want the freedom to choose the method of treatment for my daughter."

Mrs. Finn, who is separated from Dan Decker of Fort Pierce and has custody of Nikki, said both parents are satisfied that a diet of raw foods and Laetrile, a substance made from apricot pits, is keeping their daughter healthy.

But Drs. Jerry Barbosa and David Rockmore of Shands Teaching Hospital in Gainesville say that Nikki's chances of survival are slim without treatment by chemical agents, said Vincent Lloyd, attorney for the state. The physicians believe the disease is in a state of remission, but is far from cured, Lloyd said.

The Florida Legislature approved a bill in the last session to allow use of Laetrile, but a federal Food and Drug Administration ban on importing it remains in effect. Doctors and the FDA say Laetrile is useless in the fight against cancer, but some cancer patients claim that it has kept them alive.

Laetrile has also been legalized in Washington, Alaska, Indiana, Arizona, Nevada and Texas.

Mrs. Finn said that after Nikki's disease was diagnosed in January, "her father and I wanted some time to explore alternative methods. We took six days and I guess they thought that was too long."

Child abuse charges were filed against Mrs. Finn and Decker; the child was taken from her mother for two days. At that point, Mrs. Finn said she agreed to the chemotherapy.

But after three weeks of chemotherapy, Mrs. Finn said she became worried about the side effects as Nikki lost her hair, developed an excessive appetite and was depressed and moody.

Mrs. Finn said that since switching Nikki to Laetrile more than two months ago, "she is now herself again. We had a bone marrow test a week ago and they found no leukemia."

Election day on homosexual issue

MIAMI (AP) — With a bitter and increasingly bizarre campaign over, both sides predicted narrow victory in today's referendum on whether to keep the Dade County law that forbids discrimination against homosexuals in housing and jobs.

Both sides added that they would appeal an adverse decision to the U.S. Supreme Court and would continue to wage their partisan battles on a national front.

Gay rights supporters planned to celebrate tonight at the posh Dupont Plaza Hotel. The Save Our Children group, which opposes the law, will gather at the Miami Beach Holiday Inn — which overlooks a popular gay beach.

Election officials predicted that 30 to 35 per cent of the county's 700,000 voters would turn out.

The ordinance was passed four months ago by the county commission.

But the commission was forced to call the referendum after singer Anita Bryant, who promotes citrus products for the state's growers, helped form and lead Save Our Children Inc. in a petition drive to repeal the law.

Save Our Children claims that homosexuals try to recruit children to their lifestyle. Miss Bryant said she opposes the law because private and religious schools would be forced to hire homosexuals.

Miss Bryant's pronouncements against the ordinance helped publicize the referendum and stimulated fund-raising efforts by gay groups.

Supporters of the law sold T-shirts that parodied Miss Bryant's orange juice ads: "A Day without Human Rights is a Day Without Sunshine." Another said simply, "Anita Dear, Cram It."

Supporters of the ordinance say the only issue involved is human rights. They contend that being homosexual should not deny them the opportunities available to heterosexuals.

'This isn't a question of conservative ys. liberal, north vs. south," said Bob Kunst, leader of the Miami Victory Campaign, which is fighting for the ordinance. "This is really the start of a new era on the right of expression."

Bob Daley, a spokesman for Save Our Children, said Monday, "The best prediction I have is that we will win 55 to 45 per cent."

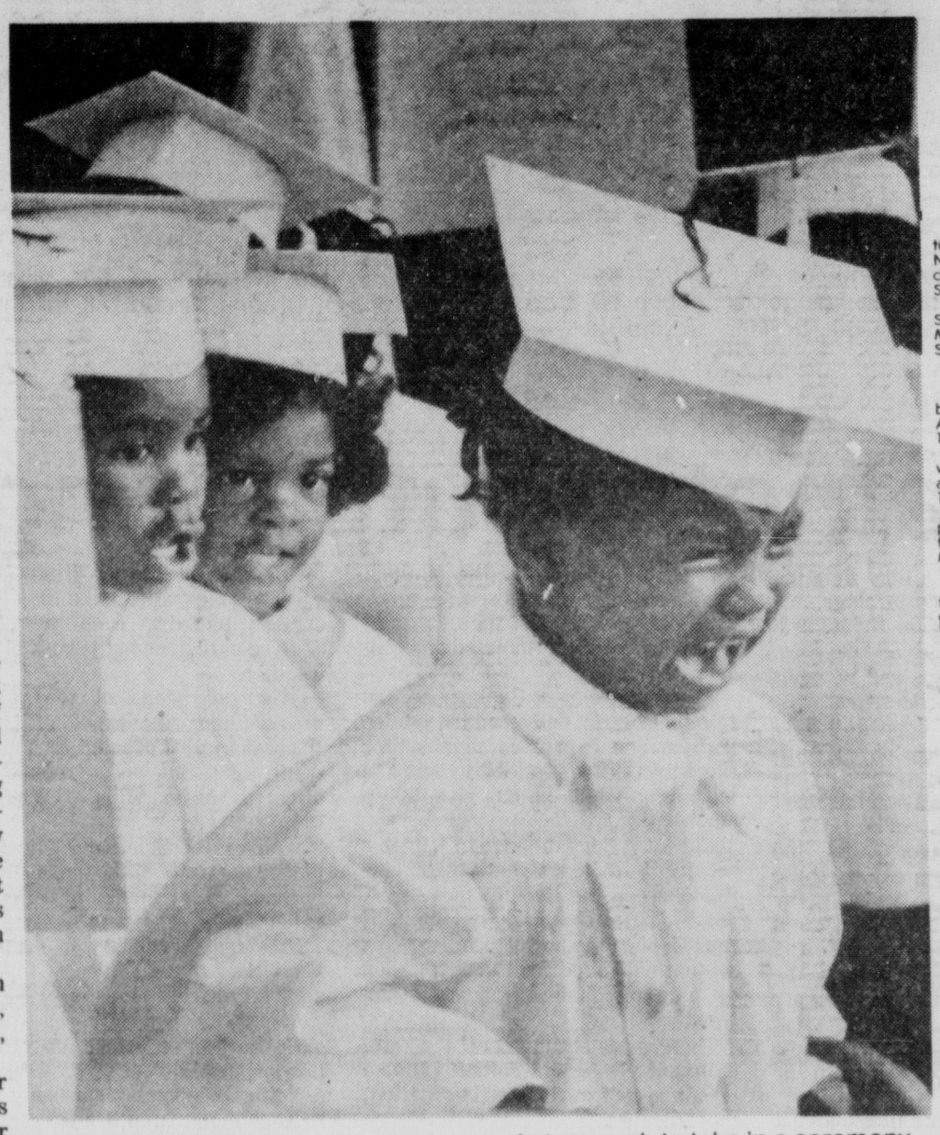
Kunst said, "I'm saying it will be 60-40 but I wouldn't be surprised if it were closer."

Catholics were urged by the diocese to vote for repeal. Daley said several prominent rabbis had helped sway the Jewish vote for repeal. He also cited an editorial in The Miami Herald as an indication of an antihomosexual sentiment in the community.

But Kunst predicted that Jews and blacks would be "in our camp."

About 40 other communities have similar laws on the books, and Daley said Save Our Children planned to fight them.

"We intend to oppose them wherever they are," he said. "This is just a battle, not the war."



NO TEARS OF JOY — Kimberly Hall, 5, found graduation just a little too much to take in a ceremony at a Cleveland day care center.

Rosalynn avoids Brazil's students opposing regime

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP) — Rosalynn Carter is steering clear of student opponents of Brazil's military regime and scoring a personal success with the generals and civilian politicians.

The U.S. First Lady arrived in the Brazilian capital as students at universities throughout the country were organizing strikes and demonstrations.

Striking students at the University of Brasilia appealed for the Carter Administration's support in an open letter in English to the President's wife. They distributed copies of it in the lobby of the U.S. Embassy Monday afternoon as she was shaking hands there with members of the embassy staff. But she told reporters later she had not seen the letter.

Earlier Monday, police invaded the university campus for the second time in two weeks and took some of the students away for questioning. The government closed the university for three days.

The students' letter to Mrs. Carter said "what is occurring here at the University of Brasilia is not an isolated incident but a symptom of the oppression under which we, as students, have lived almost our entire lives — arbitrary imprisonment and torture are fears that rule our lives. We sincerely hope that President Carter's policy toward Brazil will be guided by his support of those rights to which all human beings, everywhere, are entitled."

Mrs. Carter and Foreign Minister Antonio Azeredo da Silveira had a 75-minute meeting which he told reporters was "very agreeable ... very constructive." But the high point of her first day in Brazil was a reception at the home of U.S. Ambassador John Crimmins that brought out an usually large number of military and political leaders. They included some who are rarely seen together and others who usually avoid foreign social affairs.

Members of the embassy staff were surprised by the turnout in the light of the Brazilian government's recent angry reaction to U.S. charges that it violates basic human rights. Crimmins said it was a great personal success for Mrs. Carter.

Wearing a long navy blue gown, Mrs. Carter found herself surrounded on the terrace by ministers, diplomats and generals, waiting to shake her hand and speak a few words with her.

Among those she chatted with briefly was Ulysses Guimaraes, the president of the Brazilian Democratic MovNGent, which is the only opposition political organization permitted by the government.

Some members of Guimaraes' party appeared on the local campus last week to give their support to the striking students, but the party leader told a reporter at the reception: "There is no real connection between the visit of Mrs. Carter and the student crisis. It is an internal problem."

Water dept. loses appeal

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Board of Water and Power Commissioners has turned down a request by the Los Angeles Commission on the Status of Women to drop an appeal of a court ruling on increased pension benefits by women employes.

Last Dec. 8, the DWP appealed a U.S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeals ruling prohibiting it from making the women employes pay 15 per cent more than men into a retirement plan. The DWP said that since women outlive men, they collect more money.

Income tax bill voted

SACRAMENTO (AP) — State income tax brackets that float with inflation have been approved by the Senate Finance Committee.

The author, Sen. Dennis Carpenter, R-Newport Beach, said it would prevent those who increase their earnings from jumping to higher brackets and losing real buying power to taxes.

A 9-2 vote Monday sent the bill to the Senate floor.

The Pain of Migraine Is Very, Very Real

"Quite frankly, we Doctors often make the mistake of using names or labels of serious conditions without fully explaining them," says Dr. Fisher, D.C., of the Fisher Chiropractic Office.

"For instance, migraine, by any name, is the most cruel type of headache," Dr. Fisher went on to describe a typical migraine attack. It can start with a heavy feeling over the eyes. The victim generally becomes depressed with the thought of going through another bout with migraine.

Dr. H.L. Fisher D.C.

"The pain begins at the base of the skull and radiates, or throbs, to one or both sides of the head," the good Doctor continued. "Some senses, such as hearing, become extra acute. A dripping faucet will sound like a cannon exploding. The least jarring or stooping aggravates the pain."

What causes a migraine?

According to Dr. Fisher, a nerve pressure at the base of the skull is the culprit. This nerve pressure impairs the tone of the pyloric valve, diminishing the efficiency of digestion. Bile entering the stomach becomes difficult to dispel. The lower pelvic organs may produce low back nerve pressures.

"Pain pills and headache remedies offer only temporary relief at best, while doing nothing to relieve the cause of the problem," cautions Dr. Fisher. "All the definitions and technical language in the world mean little to the person suffering a migraine headache. 'Relief' becomes the most precious word in the English language."

In closing, Dr. Fisher reminds us that since 1895, Chiropractic has been used effectively to relieve nerve pressure in all parts of the body, nerve pressure that can cause a migraine headache. Like all forms of illness, migraine is a sign that something is wrong in the body. And until the cause of the trouble is eliminated, the body cannot enjoy the healthy state nature intended.

Note: Dr. Fisher maintains Chiropractic offices at 601 So. Oaks Ave., Ontario, California. Telephone: 983-0766.

Townsend named SANBAG head

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

San Bernardino County Supervisor Robert Townsend of Chino has been unanimously elected 1977-78 president of the San Bernardino Associated Governments (SANBAG) and the county Transportation Commission.

Townsend will take over the gavel from Councilwoman Eileen Carter of Chino at the July 6 meeting of the organizations.

Townsend's election is part of the SANBAG philosophy to alternate the presidency between city and county representatives and the east and west valleys. Also in keeping with that policy, Mayor George Goldsmith of Barstow was elected vice president. He will most likely become the next president.

Townsend began his career as an appointee to the San Bernardino County Planning Commission in 1968. He was appointed by Ruben Ayala who served as a county supervisor from the fourth district at that time.

During his six years on the commission, Townsend served as vice chairman and chairman for five years. With the election of Ayala to the state senate, he was appointed to fill Ayala's unexpired term on the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors in January 1974.

ROBERT TOWNSEND

He successfully sought re-election to the board in June 1974 after a brief hitch as an appointed supervisor. He presently serves as chairman of the board.

Townsend was born and raised in Chino. He is a graduate of Chino High School and Cal Poly San Luis Obispo. He taught agricultural classes at Chino High and Mt. San Antonio College before opening a poultry ranch in Chino.

He and his wife, Betty, have three daughters and a son.

Mrs. Kelber was born in Blissfield, Mich. She is a graduate of Pomona High School. She has a B.A. degree in behavioral science from LaVerne College. She lives in Ontario.

May quit Inland Manpower Assn.

Supervisors critical of jobs-for-youth program

By BOB SWETNAM
PB Staff Writer

Youth job programs have become a matter of concern to San Bernardino County Supervisors and a possibility looms that the county will discontinue its association with the Inland Manpower Association that now administers most job programs in the area.

Supervisor James Mayfield, who represents desert and mountain areas of the county, had some sharp criticism for the way youth job programs are administered.

He said that supervisors were often left in the dark on how and where county tax money was being utilized for job programs.

"I feel somewhat frustrated," said Mayfield, in reference to charges that administrators were oftentimes usurping the powers of the supervisors in the planning, decision making and implementation of youth and government-funded job programs.

"The bureaucrats are running around making policy and deciding who should get what instead of this board sitting down and indicating what kinds of programs we want," he charged.

"I'd like to see this board decide programs, not some school administrator who is not elected, not some bureaucrat in San Bernardino who doesn't know what the county's priorities are."

Mayfield called for a report on the present status of summer job programs for youth and asked that the supervisors consider the pros and cons of quitting the Inland Manpower Association, which at present administers many of the job programs in which the county participates.

He said he and other supervisors had not been adequately informed on how and where money was being spent.

One county employe described to supervisors some of the job programs and how they were administered. Mayfield and other supervisors were apparently unaware of some of the programs.

Supervisor Joe Kamansky of Upland supported many of Mayfield's comments. "Some of your ideas are real good," he said.

Explaining that the Inland Manpower Association presently administers $42 million in government job programs, Kamansky said, "It seems there are a lot of people running around gratefully grabbing chunks (money) here and there. If you can come up with something to hassle them (Inland Manpower Association) with, I'll do the hassling for you."

Supervisor Robert Townsend of Chino said he did not necessarily agree with Mayfield. He defended both the county administrators and the Inland Manpower Association.

He did indicate, however, that a study of the various programs, particularly youth summer job programs, would be valuable.

The supervisors called for two separate studies of job programs. On June 13 they will receive a report on the status of present summer job youth employment. On June 20 they will hear an analyses of the pros and cons of staying with the Inland Manpower Association.

School board bans smoking at meeting

Chino school trustees have approved a resolution banning smoking during regular board meetings.

Board members adopted the new law recently, after the issue was brought up by President Pete Vander Poel.

Trustee Dan Santo earlier had speculated on the possibility of approving a portion of the board room for smoking. But other trustees did not seem to favor the idea.

Augustine Tapia is the only board member who smokes. He indicated residents who attend meetings should be informed of the new rule. Visitors can smoke in the hall outside the board room, he noted.

Vander Poel took some good-natured jibes at one member of the press who continued to puff on his pipe while trustees approved the resolution. Just after the board acted, the newsman put down his pipe.

B'nai B'rith

The Ontario-Pomona Lodge of B'nai B'rith will hold a "Jewish Heritage Night" at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Temple Beth Israel in Pomona.

Rabbi Ben Beliak of the Claremont Colleges will be the speaker.

MSAC club scores

Members of the Mt. San Antonio College chapter of the Vocational-Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) won 2 first-place, 3 second-place and 3 third-place awards in the California Regional Skills Olympics held in Sacramento.

The first place winners are now eligible to compete in the national contest in Cincinnati June 20 to 25.

Co-sponsored by the California Department of Education, the Bureau of Industrial Education and the VICA organizations, the Skill Olympics drew 1,700 students and advisors representing over 100 VICA chapters.

Frank Duarte, Hacienda Heights, took first place in the machine drafting contest, and Chuck Warren, Baldwin Park, won a gold medal in the welding event. Both will represent MSAC at Cincinnati.

Silver medalists were Bob Stone, Covina, in metal arc welding; Ann Michalak, Covina, in the licensed vocational nursing competition, and Randy Johnson, Rowland Heights, in the job interview test.

Jim Smith, West Covina, won a third place bronze for his work in machine drafting; Bonnie Henderson, Glendora, took a bronze in the licensed vocational nursing, and all MSAC members won third place for the chapter's on-site display.

California regional vice president, MSAC student, Carolyn Rodriguez, will run for office in Cincinnati.

The eight medals awarded MSAC-VICA members were tied by El Camino College VICA members, placing both chapters in first place at the regional.

MSAC-VICA club president Randy Johnson said the members are now busy getting donations to help send the regional winners to the nationals. More than 4,000 students from around the nation are expected to converge on Cincinnati in June. Winners at the National Skills Olympics will advance to the international contest in Holland later this summer

Ex-Pomona police chief jailed

GOLDEN, Colo. — James W. Richards, who served as police chief in Pomona for one month last year, was sentenced today to six months in jail for embezzling over $10,000 while police chief of Arvada, Colo.

Richards, 44, also received sentences of up to 10 years in the Colorado State Reformatory, but those sentences were suspended by Dist. Judge Joseph P. Lewis on condition that Richards reimburse the City of Arvada in the amount of $10,612.17.

He pleaded guilty in February to five felony counts of embezzling public funds, two counts of felony theft and one misdemeanor count of theft. A number of other charges against him were dropped.

The charges against Richards were filed by authorities shortly after Richards left Arvada last August to become police chief in Pomona.

Announcement of the charges led the Pomona City Council to suspend Richards on Sept. 9 and he was fired two weeks later.

Richards' illegal conversion of public funds to his own use was uncovered by Richards' successor in Arvada.

An audit of police department bank accounts there revealed a number of irregularities, and a trace of several contributions from churches to the police department led investigators to Richards' personal bank account.

He was also accused of stealing a shotgun from the police department, for which he was sentenced to serve 90 days in jail concurrently with the six months sentence.

The sentences will be served by Richards in the Jefferson County Jail in Golden.

Prior to his appointment in Pomona, Richards was police chief in Arvada for three years. Before that he was a captain in the Ventura County Sheriff's department, in which he began his law enforcement career.

There have been no allegations of wrongdoing against Richards while he was in Pomona or Ventura.

Montclair seeks community center

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

At the insistence of the mayor, the Montclair City Council asked its administrative and planning staff Monday night to consider plans and specifications for a community center.

Mayor Harold Hayes voiced concern that in the final approval for expansion and improvement of the Civic Center, the council was forced to eliminate the development of a center for community meetings and activities due to lack of funds.

Hayes said he regretted the cutback on part of the Recreation Department improvements which would have included a multipurpose room or community meeting center. He asked if "the priorities on athletic and recreational facilities might be turned around."

The mayor asked the staff to develop a plan for a community building adjacent to the recreation building, and the City Council to consider using "revenue sharing funds for something people in the community could really use."

City Administrator Lauren Wasserman noted that the proposed budget, to be considered during a special meeting in First United Methodist Church's multipurpose room at 5:30 p.m. today, has appropriated $400,000 for a multipurpose room with 200 person capacity.

There may be a problem in timing, said Wasserman, in any attempt to coincide that construction project with the ongoing expansion project at the Civic Center, especially if there are two different contractors employed.

Wasserman said he must determine from the federal government if the city can advance general funds for such projects. If so, there is a possibility of breaking ground on a community center by early 1978.

The present expansion of the Recreation Department includes physical fitness facilities for all age groups, showers, sauna, weight exercise room, fee based classrooms for structured recreational activities, handball, racquetball and tennis courts.

Wasserman said the "appeal is to citizens who can't afford private clubs for such activities."

Councilman Nelson Gentry disagreed with the mayor on the question of priorities.

"I think the present priorities are suitable because of the diversity of appeal and need. Several churches and private institutions, such as Santa Fe Savings, do provide their buildings and rooms for meetings now, so it's not like people don't have someplace in the community to meet," Gentry said.

However, he did not object to consideration of the community center.

Not quite so sweet in Claremont

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Claremont school trustees declined Monday night to ban all snack food from campuses, despite strong urgings from parents who favored that action.

Board members did remove candy from vending machines on the Claremont High School campus, and soft drinks from El Roble and La Puerta intermediate schools. Candy is not presently sold at the intermediate schools.

However, soft drinks and other items such as pastries, potato chips, and popsicles will still be sold at Claremont High — and candy will be sold in the student store. And El Roble and La Puerta will continue to offer pastry, corn nuts, potato chips and popsicles.

The snack food issue came up as the board was considering renewing its contract with Temple Vending Services of Santa Fe Springs. On a 4-1 vote with board member Maralyn Tipping dissenting, trustees approved the contract for another five years, starting in September.

District Business Manager Charles Abbott, in a lengthy report, urged renewal of the contract, based mainly on the economics of the situation. The vending operation will gross $66,200 this year, of which Claremont receives $8,300 in commissions.

A number of parents, however, called on the board to ban these snack items — and the issue became somewhat heated.

One parent, Hellen-Jean Munter, said it was "immoral" for the board to consider these snack items at any level "if you're doing anything in the classroom the other way."

Board President Mary Ellen Kilsby took issue with the remark, saying she objected to "anyone calling me immoral."

John McGwire, a dentist who has five children in the schools, asked the board for an "outright ban" on these items. He noted it causes tooth decay, cancer and other illnesses. "We should set good examples for kids by following up what is done in the classroom."

Mary Lou Teske, another parent, said the issue is economics. "The district is making money on sales of bad food items to kids when we're supposed to be educating them on nutrition."

Board member Alice Ogelsby seemed to agree with Mrs. Teske, saying, "How can we teach one thing and provide something else?"

Mrs. Tipping made it clear she wanted to ban all such items from the campuses. "I went out there today and was astounded by the pastries, pies, and candy available. If we're trying to push nutrition, what are we saying to these kids?"

The four other board members were not as strong in their feelings as Mrs. Tipping and apparently did not want a total ban on snack foods.

Trustee Jim Merrill noted he was in sympathy with "junking it" at the intermediate schools, but not at the high school level. He indicated students should have freedom of choice at that level. "When do we start educating kids to make their own decisions?"

Board member Joe Hough moved to approve Abbott's recommendation to renew the vending services contract, with the addition of banning candy from the machines. "I feel like a hypocrite because I love candy," he said.

Abbott made a point that only 2.16 candy bars are consumed on the average by students per month. He also said a new vending machine offering "health food items" such as nuts and granola bars has been tried, but the items do not sell well compared to candy. Candy machines make about $132 a week for the vendor compared to $82 for the health food machine.

More healthy foods will be offered in the machines, however, under terms of the new contract given Temple Vending.

Police lauded and criticized

By DAN NIEBRUGGE

Residents both complimented and took swipes at the Pomona Police Department Monday night as Police Chief Richard Slaght presented a report to the City Council on current programs within the department.

Most of his presentation was concerned with the department's newly formed major crime task force and development of police reserve and service officer programs.

The chief told council members that since its inception last March, the 10-man special crime task force has made 50 felony and misdemeanor arrests and issued at least 60 citations. He said the task force had contacted over 350 businesses in the city to provide crime prevention information to the more robbery-prone, and had been instrumental in breaking up at least two armed robberies.

Slight said the unit has worked with the Department of Justice in obtaining electronic surveillance equipment and has worked in disguise to capture purse snatchers and others aiming their criminal talents against the elderly and women.

In recent weeks, the priority of the task force has changed to a greater emphasis on breaking up gang activity in the city, said Slaght. He said the unit has been concentrating on Sharkey and Cherryville Parks and the Pomona school district's children's center.

Responding to Slaght's report on the reserve and service officer programs, council members expressed concern that more sworn peace officers be taken off desk duty and placed on patrol to present what Mayor Charles Bader called "a high profile" to make the police presence more obvious.

Bader said that such a program had been successfully utilized in the City of Chino.

Slaght said he now has 34 applicants who have qualified for training as reserve officers and who will hopefully begin their minimum of 150 hours of training by September, if not sooner. Reserve officers, he explained, may work only with a regular sworn officer — not alone. He also said the department is screening 11 applicants for five positions as service officers to take over desk duties and function in a more community relations oriented manner. Some of these, he said, would hopefully be bilingual.

Slaght's positive comments were dampened somewhat by residents who complained primarily about police red tape and the slow response time to calls for assistance.

One resident, who asked not to be identified, said her home had been fired upon twice in recent weeks, with bullets penetrating the walls. She claimed young children had to be sent away on the weekends and other family members had to sleep on the floor.

She claimed that after each shooting, police failed to arrive at the scene for at least 25 minutes.

Following the meeting, the same resident said, "The police are scared. They've said themselves that they're not going to get killed. They said they want to go home that night, but they go home to a different town."

Other residents voiced complaints about police procedures in taking calls for assistance, response time and police relations and communication with the community.

Others spoke on behalf of the department, one even going so far as to thank Slaght for the speed with which his officers had stopped an armed robbery in a local grocery store recently.

Chino mulls building cutback

Chino City Council will consider an agreement tonight, approved by the San Bernardino County Board of Supvisors Monday, that will seriously curtail new home construction due to West End sewage capacity problems.

Although the sewage treatment plant in Chino, operated by the Chino Basin Municipal Water District (CBMWD), is being expanded from three to five million gallons per day, Chino would be allowed only about 500 additional homes to hook into the system. The majority of the expanded facility will be utilized for homes already built or nearing construction within Chino and the Chino Hills area.

The plant is expected to be expanded this fall. The figure of 500 homes represents 30 per cent of the additional sewage flow capacity. Another 70 per cent is allowed Chino for commercial and industrial development.

Dianne Guzman, county planner, told supervisors Monday the agreement between the county and the City of Chino will threaten sewage hookups for 800 proposed homes in the county's Chino Hills area for which subdivision plans have been approved.

The agreement expires June 30, 1978 and CBMWD general manager Ray Ferguson said more treatment capacity is expected to be developed after that date. Mrs. Guzman said that developers are currently considering alternatives to the present problem by possibly expanding lot sizes to accommodate septic tanks or building small-scale treatment plants that would ultimately be turned over to CBMWD for operation.

Pedigreed pup stolen from 3-year-old boy

A pedigreed St. Bernard puppy valued at $225 was stolen Monday evening from a 3-year-old San Dimas boy, sheriff's deputies said.

The puppy was grabbed from the son of the puppy's owner, Donna R. Ward, 22, in front of the Ward residence at 314 S. Silton Ave.

Deputies said the thief, about 18, drove up with two companions and asked the child to show him the puppy. When the boy did, the youth grabbed the dog, gave the child a quarter and sped away in the car.

The youth was described as black, about 18 years old wearing a fur hat. His companions also were blacks in their late teens. The car was a 1973-model tan Buick.

The puppy was two months old, gray and white with a golden area around its eyes.

Fire in garage used as church

Arson is suspected in a $9,000 fire in Pomona Monday which started in a garage used as a church.

The fire at the home of Carolyn Bridges, 960 Hyde St., was reported at 2:30 p.m.

Pomona fire officials said the fire, started by unknown persons, spread from the attached garage to the living room. It caused extensive smoke damage inside of the house before being brought under control.

Los Angeles County fire officials are investigating a $5,000 fire in a vacant single-family house in Walnut early this morning.

The house at 367 Hallrich St. was empty

Seek traffic safety on Indian Hill Blvd.

Proposals for continued improvement of pedestrian safety and reduction of traffic on Indian Hill Boulevard will be discussed at a picnic meeting of the Memorial Park Neighborhood Association at the park Monday.

Members and those wishing to join MPNA will meet at 5:30 p.m. in the park. Business discusssions will start at 6:30 p.m.

Association President Forest Harrison reported that a complete program of safety and traffic proposals will be presented at the Claremont City Council meeting June 14 and will outline various needs which residents consider necessary to maintain a quiet neighborhood.

Also on the agenda is a discussion of the MPNA July 4 booth at Memorial Park.

Upland council kills moratorium

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

Upland City Council Monday adopted a Growth Management Plan as an urgency ordinance on the eve of the expiration of its building moratorium.

Council members rejected a request made earlier in the day by the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors that the city extend its three-month moratorium until July 20.

Councilman Hal Bailin termed the county counsel's request to the city "sheer gall" and said the new ordinance would more than meet the intent of the county's desire.

While single-family units on established lots in the city are exempt from the new plan, the Growth Management Plan is designed to control development of housing tracts in the city and establish priorities by which such developments would be allowed.

Bailin said that, because of the time involved, no additional developments could be considered by the city's Planning Commission until well after the July 20 date.

The urgency ordinance was adopted by a 4-0 vote with Mayor George Gibson absent.

The plan, which will still undergo some revisions and refinement of its wording, was generally praised by Richard Lewis, Doug Hone and Robert Sherwood, Upland developers, as fair and workable.

It calls for the establishment of a point rating system based, among other things, on the consistency of the development proposed with general plans, the location of the development, environmental and esthetic qualities, and the availability of sewers, transit lines, schools

The Growth Management Plan will be reviewed annually and is timed to coincide with the county's allocation plan which controls the rate of growth within each of the West End communities.

In other action, the council voted to allow ambulance companies operating in the city to charge $5 for the use of oxygen when needed and to charge an additional night fee from 7 p.m. to 7 a.m. instead of 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. which is presently permitted.

Mike Metlock, administrative specialist, explained the changes were necessary so that the companies could be reimbursed under Medi-Cal and Medicare regulations.

Metlock said that the City of Montclair approved the change, requested by B and B Ambulance Co., earlier in the evening.

There was no public response to the city's public hearing on the proposed use of an estimated $236,641 in General Revenue Sharing Funds.

City Manager Lee Travers said the money will be used to supplement the city's Police Department budget during the next fiscal year.

Central city gets new hope

Some decades after the deterioration of the nation's central cities became a matter of universal concern, the verdict is still out on the question of whether any combination of public and private efforts can reverse the trend.

The single most ambitious urban renewal project so far is Detroit's Renaissance Center, the $337-million privately financed brainchild of Henry Ford II and other civic-minded business leaders.

The soaring complex, consisting of four 34-story office towers surrounding a central 73-story hotel — a third again as big as New York's Rockefeller Center — recently opened for business. If early figures on the extent of that business are as indicative of the future as is the architecture of Renaissance Center itself, it may well live up to its optimistic name.

Both retail space occupancy, at 58 per cent, and office occupancy, at 75 per cent, are well above projections. Occupancy of the 1,400-room hotel, the Detroit Plaza, has been running at 70 per cent. More importantly, some 416 major conventions have been booked by the hotel through 1981, conventions which will bring in tens of millions of dollars.

But while some of this money will spill over into the rest of the downtown area, skeptics note that the flight of businesses out of the city continues, including one of Detroit's two major department stores, which will close its downtown building this summer.

And while Renaissance Center is generally acclaimed as an architectural triumph, critics contend that its design and location on the Detroit River, separated from downtown by a 10-lane highway, make it too aloof and fortresslike.

In short, while the economic success of Renaissance Center itself looks assured, the same cannot yet be said of the city whose rebirth it was intended to inspire and lead.

It should be noted, however, that nearly $450 million in major construction projects in addition to Renaissance Center were under way in Detroit in 1976.

Again, it is much too early to render a verdict. Renaissance Center is, after all, meant to be but the beginning of and catalyst for an on-going process of revitalizing the nation's fifth largest city. And what a dramatic beginning it is.

Just in jest

Be it ever so humble there's no investment like owning a home — provided, of course, you purchased it at least 10 years ago. During that decade its value has increased at least 100 per cent over what it originally cost. Naturally, if one wanted to carry that sort of wishful thinking back 50 years — well, who knows what a small fortune one might get for an old 1927 klunker of a home? The secret is to find some antique buff who is willing to shell out for a relic from the good old days. It's something like the prices folks are paying for early 1900 hand-cranking automobiles with rumble seats, isinglass curtains, Klaxon horns and tool kits on the running boards. — And so, as I look back at the investment opportunities I have missed, one of my biggest regrets is that I didn't insist on being willed the three-hole family outhouse which was destroyed when we installed indoor plumbing.

When I get out my pocket calculator and start figuring what I could get today for that classic bit of early American architecture, in no time at all the little electronic gadget runs out of spaces on which to register the answer.

Computers just plain folks?

Any day now, some bright young genius is going to write a book on how to outwit a computer. It'll be the biggest best-seller since "Peyton Place."

Never mind the do-it-yourself sex handbooks. Frustration in that department is only momentary compared to the constant failures most of us suffer in our daily battles with the electronic brain.

Biologists can argue all they please that human intelligence is superior to any computer yet put together. Which just goes to show how far removed from reality they are in their ivory-tower labs.

Match them in combat with a fancy piece of machinery that's just fouled up their magazine subscriptions and then let them tell us which critter is smarter.

If nothing else, it should widen their horizons for gene-transplant possibilities. Like grafting a mortal brain cell to a collection of programmed nuts and bolts.

Maybe then we could fight over the monthly bills on an equal footing.

Until that time, the best we can hope for is a how-to paperback on ways to get through to a trained box that may be able to add up the national debt in microseconds — but won't talk to you about why it lost last month's check. And if you think things are bad now, brace yourself. They're not going to get any better. Ever.

Already we have computers that play chess . . . predict the weather . . . and make up the Pentagon payroll. There's even one that will listen to a patient's symptoms and diagnose his ailment. It doesn't prescribe treatment or pass out pills yet, but don't think it won't come to that.

Brains are built out of matter, the scientists argue, and so are machines. So who's to say that a brain can perform a computation that a machine can't? All they're waiting for, they say, is the day the biologists figure out what makes a human brain tick.

Then stand back, folks. Electronic intelligence won't be far behind.

Actually, they're too close for comfort right now. Close enough to be feuding among themselves over whether computers can really think. And if they can, should they be allowed to?

Joseph Weizenbaum, professor of computer science at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, says no; it's too dangerous. That computers and humans will never see eye-to-eye because it's against the nature of science.

Not so, say other experts in the field; the computer is no more dangerous than any other machine. (Guess they don't call ruining your credit rating dangerous.) And while they haven't yet built one that can actually reason, they do have some that are promisingly "clever."

That's why we need our own handy-dandy reference book on how to fight back. Take a for-instance:

The Defense Department and the Space Administration are spending $5 million a year trying to teach computers to think. So what do we do when some uppity machine gets mad at a foreign country and cranks out a message urging military retaliation?

Should computers be allowed to create policy? Write treaties? Conduct arms talks? Let's face it, Kissinger was a pussycat compared to the damage a power-crazy calculator could get us into.

Schools go for double-dipping

By EARL G. WATERS

Recent disclosures in this column of a Berkeley school employe payrolled on a federally funded project, being at the same time employed by two other school districts, suggested the possibility that there might be other cases of double-dipping by school personnel. Now it appears the story opened a Pandora's Box.

First off, the Berkeley employe, Dr. Marie Fielder, who parlayed her Bay Area assignment into contracts with two Sacramento area school districts for a combined total of $23,000 on top of the $20,465 she is paid on the federal project, has now been discovered to have extended her operations into other districts as far south as Pomona.

Just how many districts paid her for essentially the same work being performed in the Bay Area project will have to be left to the state agency responsible for auditing school expenditures to determine. It is understood the Department of Finance has undertaken reviews to find the extent to which school employes are receiving payments from more than one school district.

It appears the auditors will have plenty to do, for when it comes to finding ways to reach into the taxpayer's pockets, the educators appear to have more hands than an octopus.

Probably the practice which has spread with the contagion of an epidemic is that of school administrators taking early retirement only to immediately be rehired to continue the same work under the guise of "consulting contracts."

This form of double-dipping came to light several years ago and resulted in the enactment of legislation limiting the amount a retired school employe could earn from a school district to $5,000 a year. The permission to double-dip to that extent came on the dubious argument that certain people were indispensably valuable.

But greed knows no limits, and the limitations have now been discovered to be ineffective. Many school districts are failing to report the earnings of these retread employes to the State Teachers Retirement System as required by the law. Others are circumventing the law through the fiction of being "independent contractors" and therefore payments to them are not reportable to the retirement system under present law.

A classic example is that of a top Los Angeles school administrator who retired several years ago on a salary in excess of $50,000 and now draws his retirement pay plus another $30,000 a year as an "independent contractor." Another in San Mateo County using the dodge of "independent contractor" was recently exposed to be fulfilling the exact same duties as he had before "retirement," thus getting two salaries for the same job.

Concerned over the effect on the retirement funds of the teachers which admittedly are $8 billion short of total obligations, administrators of the fund are supporting legislation authored by Assemblywoman Carol Hallett, which would tighten the controls by putting more teeth in the reporting requirement and defining as employes those now working as independent contractors.

Her legislation is co-authored by Assemblywoman Leona Egeland and Assemblyman Waddie Deddah, both former school teachers. However, Assemblyman Willie Brown has a bill going the other direction and would raise the limits of double-dipping to $10,000. Since his bill is aimed at overcoming a situation in San Francisco where decreased enrollment threatens layoffs of minority teachers who lack seniority, it has been amended to apply only to that school district. If passed it will permit San Francisco to reduce its payroll through the early retirement of senior teachers yet retain their expertise by rehiring them through contractual relationships. The State Teachers Retirement will subsidize San Francisco's minority hiring program if Brown's bill passes.

Israel will have a prime minister

It is still uncertain whether Menachem Begin, leader of the Likud party in Israel, will be able to take over as that country's new prime minister.

Begin suffered a heart attack and was hospitalized for three weeks in April in the midst of the election campaign, and immediately after his party's upset victory over the ruling Labor party, was hospitalized again for apparent exhaustion.

If the same thing had happened to a party standard-bearer in the United States, national politics would be in a state of turmoil, if not panic. Constitutional scholars would be furiously debating what would happen if the president-elect were unable to attend his own inauguration. Would the 25th amendment on presidential disability apply in such a situation? Would the vice president-elect succeed him?

Fortunately, Israel, which has enough other problems, does not face this one.

The reason, of course, is that like most other democracies, Israel operates under the parliamentary system. The electorate votes not for a party "ticket" but for individual candidates for parliament. The leader of the party winning a majority, either in absolute numbers of seats or by virtue of coalition with other parties (as will be the case with the Likud), becomes the prime minister. Thus if Begin is unable to serve, his party will merely choose someone else from among its members.

Volatile as conditions are in the Middle East, they would be even more volatile if they hinged on the state of one man's health.

Nixon pardon account disputed

WASHINGTON — The controversial pardoning of Richard Nixon aborted the trial of the century. Had it not been for the pardon, according to inside sources, the special prosecutor definitely would have indicted the former President for obstruction of justice.

Instead of the epic court drama, Nixon has now presented his case to the nation via television. He told interviewer David Frost that he considered himself under oath. If Nixon had really sworn to tell the truth, he could be indicted for perjury. We counted at least a dozen misstatements.

Perhaps the most dramatic was Nixon's account of the pardon itself. From the private notes and recollections of the man who negotiated the pardon on President Ford's behalf, we can now cite the discrepancies.

Ford's personal lawyer, Benton Becker, kept a careful record of his visit to San Clemente in September 1974 to discuss the pardon and the disposition of the Nixon tapes. Becker flew to California with the ex-President's attorney, Herbert J. Miller. Although they arrived shortly before midnight, they immediately went into a three-hour huddle with Nixon aide Ronald Ziegler.

The talks resumed the following morning in Ziegler's office. Frequently, Ziegler and Miller slipped out of the room for whispered consultations.

Nixon later told David Frost that a pardon "isn't, of course, . . . necessarily an admission of guilt." This idea, he said, was "legalistic pettifogging."

On the contrary, Becker made plain to Nixon's negotiators before the pardon was granted that it would constitute an admission of guilt. He even provided Miller with the leading Supreme Court decision on the question — a 1915 case involving a newsman who refused to testify.

To guarantee him immunity, the prosecutor got President Woodrow Wilson to sign a pardon for the reporter. But the newsman rejected it as an admission of guilt. The Supreme Court, agreeing with the newsman, declared that a presidential pardon "carries with it an imputation of guilt" and acceptance of a pardon amounts to "a confession of (guilt)."

Nixon told David Frost of his agony as he debated whether to sign the pardon. "When you receive a pardon," explained the former President, "you have to sign a piece of paper that says, 'I accept the pardon.' "

He related, with pain in his voice, that he almost turned down the pardon to stand trial on criminal charges. "It was a terribly difficult decision for me," he said. "I sat for an hour in the chair by myself. I asked Miller to leave the room."

After this hour of agonizing, said Nixon, he told Miller: " 'Well, O.K., I'll do it.' And so I signed it."

In fact, Nixon never signed a pardon at all. The only paper he signed at San Clemente was an agreement with the government, establishing dual ownership of his papers and tapes.

Becker's notes also dispute Nixon's dramatic account of his last-minute soul searching. Before Becker and Miller ever arrived at San Clemente, Nixon had already indicated through his counsel that he wanted a pardon. It was Nixon's interest in getting pardoned that prompted President Ford to send Becker to San Clemente.

Not until the negotiations were completed did Nixon, looking fatigued and forlorn, make a personal appearance. He was despondent and disoriented. "Thank you for being fair," he murmured to Becker. "You are a fine young man." Then in the middle of the conversation, he grabbed Becker's arm. "You are a big boy," blurted the recluse of San Clemente, completely out of context. "Did you ever play football?"

Back in Washington, Becker reported to President Ford on his San Clemente experience. Ford had already decided to grant the pardon. But he added to his statement, as another reason for the pardon, "the threat to (Nixon's) health."

Think on these things

Happiness is probably the hardest thing to define in our lives — we know so little about it. And yet, it is only elusive because we look outside ourselves for it, and happiness is not a result of what happens to us, but what happens in us.

Happiness is happy-in-us — in spite of all the things that would try us beyond our endurance. It is an inner spring that bubbles up in those quiet, serene moments, or when that harmonious center within us attracts the joy of others and heightens the moment.

Happiness is a decision we make — a normal, natural state of being that we do not smother in oughts and shoulds and if onlys. It simply is — we simply are.

Warnings plague Americans

Americans are increasingly suspicious of too many government "warnings."

Historically, governments have sought to silence dissent and rally popular support by the specter of some "foreign threat."

Perhaps we are now tending to equate that former political device with our recent emphasis on protecting us from ourselves.

The Calorie Control Council admittedly represents food and drink makers who would like to use saccharine for their products.

The council could be expected to favor deregulation.

It is this council which recently conducted a telephone survey which, we are told, reveals that Americans are 69 per cent fed up with government telling them everything they eat and drink is bad for their health.

If the Calorie Control Council were our only source for this reported reaction, we might set it aside as insignificant.

But in my own travels — two and three cities each week — I am hearing the proliferation of government health and safety regulations elicit laughter.

UPI's professional observer, Mike Conlon, says the American people are getting "shell-shocked" as a result of all these government warnings. It seems nothing is safe to eat, drink, drive, smoke or wear.

One problem is that laboratory research tends to confirm that cancer can be caused by "too much of anything."

That goes for asbestos from fireplace logs, red dye in soda pop, breathing benzene or eating bacon.

Mother's milk contains toxic chemicals. And even the air we breathe.

The EPA and the FDA, the CPSC, the NCI and OSHA — all have been created by Congress with a mandate to search out and destroy anything potentially injurious to the public health, and almost everything is.

Dr. E. Cuyler Hammond of the National Cancer Society was among the earliest of those scientists who tried to warn us against the cigarette as a potential cancer causer.

Now he is becoming concerned about the overkill. Too many warnings may result in deafening the consumer to all warnings.

Dr. Hammond says, "Some people are alarmed to a greater degree than is warranted by evidence now at hand."

He says, "The best way to develop realistic attitudes is frankly to admit our limitations and to try to distinguish between what we know and what we only suspect."

Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., an influential health legislator in Congress, believes the FDA was too "hasty" in issuing its ban on saccharine.

And it is going to discredit the government's watchdog health agencies if they continue to issue sweeping bans against substances which "might cause cancer" while continuing to subsidize the growing of more tobacco, which they know can be blamed for a third of all cancers.

Handle kitten, but carefully

DEAR DR. MILLER: When it's alone, and you're raising an orphan kitten without its mother, should you handle it or not? I know about older kittens needing to be around people. What I'm wondering about is the first two or three weeks. — D.W.

DEAR D.W.: That newborn or very young kitten needs careful handling from day one on. It will receive some during feeding, elimination and cleanup periods. This results in some stress which is, in fact, desirable, stimulating the body's own defense systems to be able to handle additional stress in later life. Taking care of the necessities will provide adequate handling during the initial period. As the weeks go by and less actual rearing time is required, additional deliberate periods of handling and socialization are advisable.

DEAR DR. MILLER: It wouldn't be possible for a parakeet who has round perches to have flat feet, would it? There's something wrong with them. — L.T.

DEAR L.T.: Flat-footed afflictions affecting feathered friends are infrequent. Parakeet feet may be bothered by bunions or pressure sores relating to hard, unyielding perches. Sandpaper perches serve no useful purpose (they don't "file" the toenails) and cause sore feet. Mites may cause severe thickening and cracking on the tops of the toes and feet and on the legs. Faulty nerve and circulatory function may cause foot swelling or inflammation or even loss of toes or feet. Natural perches of varying diameters are preferred for all cage birds. When the feet are inflamed, wrapping the perches with chamois or similar material as padding may be helpful. Keeping perches clean is always advisable — it's essential when the feet are already inflamed.

Obvious swelling, marked change in color, or any condition affecting the bird's use of its feet should be checked by a bird-oriented veterinarian. Most can be helped with early treatment (though some, such as gout, respond poorly.)

DEAR DR. MILLER: Is it dangerous for a dog to drink warm water? — A.R.

DEAR A.R.: No, and warm water's certainly preferable to no water at all. The danger is that the dog won't drink as much water as it should, because it doesn't like it warm. A plentiful supply of cool water, during hot weather particularly, will encourage the dog to drink and replace the fluids lost in increasingly large amounts through panting as the temperature rises.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be apprehensive of any conclusions you reach today. Your logic and intuition are very fallible. Mistakes could be major ones.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In financial projections today, you are more hopeful than realistic. Additionally, you tend to be extravagant and wasteful of what you've accumulated.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You may bank too heavily on good friends and good fortune to get you over the tight spots today. Unfortunately, neither can be depended upon.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Try not to kid yourself or others today. See things as they are, without embellishments, not as you'd like them to be.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your speculative urges could have you chasing rainbows today. Gambles or risky ventures will lead you only to a worthless pot of fool's gold.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be frank and honest in your dealings today. But also be doubly sure those you're negotiating with are equally sincere.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Big ideas and high-sounding phrases are yours in abundance today. However, you lack the follow-through to make them into reality.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your high-rolling tendencies will bring you very little for your money today. Above all, don't jeopardize resources you're managing for another.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Promises are not assets unless they're fulfilled. Your gullible nature today may erroneously lead you to think someone's word is like money in the bank.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't butter up someone with the notion that they'll do a favor for you. You'll be fooling only yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Trying to impress others by spending lavishly when you can't afford it is a no-no today. It's more important to be solvent than sorry.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It's tough to get your goals in focus today. This is complicated by unreasonable concern for what others think is best for you.

Ann Landers

Response to Huggy's wife

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to respond to Huggy Bear's Wife — he was the man who constantly put his arms around women, rubbed their backs, etc. You said someday, he'd get punched out. Well, that's fine for a woman who would never have to see the octopus again but that isn't always the case.

I worked at a mostly all-girls college for several year. One of the academic big shots enjoyed pawing, squeezing, grabbing and patting the female students. I can attest to the fact that hinting and dodging brought no results.

What can a girl do when she'd love to punch a guy out but can't because she's afraid of the consequences? — Likewise Victimized In Lake Placid

Dear L.V.: There are better solutions than punching a guy out.

Quick footwork, the rapid, no-nonsense removal of the hands off the body, and a well-worded warning (said with a warm smile, of course) that the merchandise is "for looking but not for touching." Any or all of the aforementioned suggestions will get the most persistent lecher to clean up his act — if she really wants him to, that is. Some dolls would rather complain.

Dear Ann: I would like to respond to the young lady who wrote to chew you out because you so often advise your readers to "get counseling." I'm with you.

Just talking to someone about disappointments, anxieties and fears can be a tremendous help. I work for a crisis intervention place and people often call or come in just to talk. Many times these people come back to thank us for helping them through a rough situation.

We are not psychologists, we are volunteers — many of us with problems of our own, but we are willing to help others. I believe that 13-year-old girl who wrote has a misconception of what it means to "get counseling." It doesn't mean you are menatlly ill. It means you are a human willing to admit it. This is healthy.

My letter is beginning to sound like a sermon, so I'll sign off — but I appreciate your letting me speak my piece. — Voluntary Caring

Dear V.C.: And you spoke it well, indeed. You'll never know how many lifesavers you've thrown out to people who were hanging by a thread. Bless you.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a problem that is getting my goat. It's our next-door neighbors. They have a rosebush that grows next to our driveway. Every time I get into my car to go to church, to the doctor, or the store, the darned thing catches on either my dress or my coat. It has also scratched my arms and my face. Our little girl almost got it in the eye a couple of times.

The bush is on their property so we can't touch it. My husband says he's going to chop it down one of these days, regardless. It does no good to complain. We have, and they thought it was very funny.

There must be a solution to this dilemma. What is it? — Nasty Neighbor Problem In Kentucky

Dear Ken: You've got more than a "Nasty Neighbor Problem." It's a legal problem. I'm not at all sure you can force them to remove the bush but I'll bet you can do something about the branches that extend on to your property and do the dirty work.

See a lawyer — and also inquire about collecting for past damages.

Erma Bombeck

It's either me or TV football

"Where have you been?" asked my husband as I locked the front door.

"To my parent-without-partners meeting."

"Since when are you a single parent?"

"Since Howard Cosell found his voice. Parents-without-partners is a group of 200 women who discuss how we can compete with televised sports. Tonight was an important meeting. We are pressuring the heads of networks to either release our husbands from their grip or list them as legally dead so all of us will be free to probate the estates and remarry."

"You talk ridiculous."

"Believe me, we are not talking ridiculous. I read a story where next January, the Super Bowl is going to telecast the game during the dinner hour."

"Of course they are," said my husband. "Why, that game is expected to draw the highest ratings since 'Roots.'"

"I don't care if Kunta Kinte is playing quarterback, that game is not going to interfere with our dinner again."

"Answer me one question," he said. "Why is it women get so uptight when men watch a football game?"

We read a poem tonight at the meeting from Melanie Ladner in Nederland, Texas, that says it all. Pay attention."

"When we stood at the altar and said, 'I do's,'

I don't recall a football being there too.

When you needed some help to get your degree,

Did football pitch in? No, friend, it was me.

When you sprained your ankle or got the flu,

Was football around to wait on you?

And what did football have to do,

With the kids who live here and look like you?

Football cares not if you live or you die,

Yet I rate so low and it rates so high,

When I took your name if I recall,

I changed it to Ladner, not Mrs. Football."

"You know what you sound like? A jealous shrew. You cannot believe there is something else on this earth that would bring pleasure to a husband, other than yourself. You resent the fact that something so basic and formless as a football can replace your standing ribs, turn a man on without so much as a fumble, keep him in a chair for five hours with simply the promise of coming back after the commercial. You're jealous!"

I tossed him a football. "Okay, Bionic Kidneys, you win. Here's your new roommate. You got four trys to make a first down. Imcompleted passes, fumbles, and out of bounds all count."

That was six weeks ago. He still hasn't realized I'm gone.

Dr. Lamb

Start exercise by walking

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 61 years old, 5 feet 3 and I weigh 170 pounds. I would so like to lose some weight, especially around my hips and stomach. I had a complete hysterectomy six weeks ago and I am afraid to do exercises. Could you help me on this problem ?

I have become very depressed and discouraged. I have high blood pressure and my nerves are about gone.

DEAR READER — It is wise not to do exercises that involve an area where surgery has been done until your doctor tells you it is O.K. for you. That means you will need to wait on doing sit ups and leg lifts. But if you feel fairly good you could start a walking program.

Start by walking 15 minutes a day and gradually increase it until you can walk an hour every day. If you have time you may be able to walk even more. The more you can build up your walking program and keep it up the easier it will be for you to lose weight.

There is no such thing as spot reducing, despite all of it because you are using more calories than you are taking in. Just doing sit ups or leg lifts will not decrease your weight around your hips and stomach unless you are losing fat all over. Such exercises sometimes help tighten up sagging muscles but that is about all.

I am sending you my weight losing diet that you can follow in The Health Letter number 4-7. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. The diet is a balanced 1200 calorie program that works best with doing some regular exercise too.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a man of 69 and have a problem. The ring of muscles around my anus pop out after relieving myself and stay out. In order to be comfortable I have to push them back in several times a day.

My doctor tells me those are tired muscles and recommends surgery. There are so many drugs and other things to cure many ailments I would think some doctor or drug manufacturer would have found a salve or ointment which would make these muscles go back to normal.

Please advise me if there is such a salve or ointment so I would not have to have surgery.

DEAR READER — You are describing prolapse of the rectum. We all have layers of muscles attached to the large pelvic bones to hold in the abdominal contents. The pelvis is really like a basket with the upper part being the crest of the hip bones, and the bottom being the pubic arch in front and the bony structures you sit on. The bottom from the pubic arch to the areas you sit on are laced with muscles. These go around the rectum and genitalia and also support them.

These muscles are also connected to the muscles directly surrounding the rectum. When these muscles get weak a prolapse can occur.

There is no medicine for this as it is a mechanical problem. Your doctor is right, the only way the condition can be corrected is by surgery.

Because of the volume of mail Dr. Lamb cannot answer your letters personally but he will answer representative letters of general interest in his column. Write to him in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

What people say

"I like Ralph Nader. I think he's been on the button so far. I know some people don't trust him, but the reason is incredible. One young woman told me she didn't trust him because he's too honest. Too honest! We're so used to corruption, we no longer trust an honest man."

— Author Studs Terkel, discussing his heroes in a recent interview.

"Everybody writes about what wine you should order with haute cuisine. We tell you what to order with basse cuisine — like what to drink with a Big Mac. The kinds of wines you drink with basse cuisine are so high in sugar content it doesn't matter whether it's white or red, you choose the color on the basis of what you're wearing.

— Marshall Efron, co-author of the book "Marshall Efron and Alfa-Betty Olsen Lick the Table Clean."

"We've survived. We must go on to become so strong that government will no longer fear women because women as well as men will be the government."

To 'smooch' is to smear

The slang word "smooch" wasn't coined until after the invention of modern lipstick. Came from the German "smutzen" meaning to smear. I said "modern" lipstick, please note. In just about every century, somebody invented that again, all the way back. Lipstick of sorts has been found on Egyptian mummies.

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

Q. "My wife — she's 19 — and I — I'm 21 — just got married this week. What are the statistical odds we'll celebrate our 50th wedding anniversary together?"

A. About 42 out of 100. That's not bad. Only 75 years ago a bride and groom of your ages had only 19 chances out of 100 to survive together that long.

Q. "Are fireflies hot?"

A. No, sir, fireflies are cool. Very cool. In contrast to a lightbulb, which wastes most of its energy in heat, the firefly burns with better than a 90 per cent efficiency. Did I mention it would take 137,000 fireflies to equal one 60-watt lightbulb?

MEMORY

Remarkable how many things we can't remember, even though we see them every day, or almost. Years ago in New York City, a city editor assigned me to ask commuters on the Staten Island ferry in which hand the Statue of Liberty holds the torch. Nine out of 10 didn't know without looking. Right. Even though they may be chain smokers, few citizens can tell you offhand how many matches come in the small standard matchbook. Figure 20. And can you sketch from memory the instrument panel on your car? Neither can I.

The Lukacs-Rubens book is on play only. If it were on bidding, they would find some way to get North and South to seven clubs or seven spades. Seven clubs is the best contract. It makes unless spades break 5-0 or East holds all five clubs. However, this time you are South and you find yourself in six spades.

The ordinary declarer says something like, "We just missed the big boat," ruffs the heart lead, plays a spade to his ace and finds that a 4-1 break in trumps has caused the hand to collapse.

The careful declarer knows that, since he has missed the big boat, he wants to make sure that the little boat doesn't get away.

He ruffs the first heart, leads a spade and ducks!

This wastes a trick if spades break 3-3, but it is a trick that South can well afford to waste. He has bid six. He will make six by means of this play unless it turns out that East holds all five spades in which case there was no way to make the spade slam.

Ask the Jacobys

A Wisconsin reader wants to know when a trick that has been taken and turned may be inspected.

The answer is that until a player or his partner has played to the next trick, he has the right to look at the last trick. If it is his trick he turns it up, if someone else's trick he asks that person to turn it up.

VOLUNTEER CONGRATULATED — Tara Pfeiffer, 10 months old, is cuddled by Dr. John D. Putnam, chief physician at Pomona Health Center, as he talks with Mrs. Claire Teska, a volunteer with more than 4,000 hours at the center. She works in prenatal clinic and business services.

Hospital volunteers honored

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

Last year, 1,024 volunteers gave 10,254 hours of service at the Pomona Health Center.

"We couldn't maintain the many services to the community without these dedicated volunteers," said Dr. John D. Putnam, chief physician at the Pomona Center of the Los Angeles County Department of Health Services, during a program to honor volunteers.

"It feels good to know that we have the support of the community. The volunteers not only provide many of the day-to-day services in the various health center clinics, they also staff the evening and weekend special clinics," added Dr. Putnam.

Abel Martinez, volunteer coordinator, said the people currently serving as volunteers are a highly versatile group who step in to assist on very short notice and are willing to accept any task.

The volunteers provided a large part of the staff during the recent measles immunization clinics and the earlier flu immunization programs sponsored by the health department, Martinez reported.

Volunteers assist in the prenatal, well-baby, immunization, blood pressure and nutrition clinics. They also work in the laboratory, the business office and the social service department.

Mrs. Claire Teska of Pomona, honored with a certificate for over 4,000 hours during the past 15 years, assists in the prenatal clinic and business office.

Honored for at least 500 hours were Betty Bengoechea, Alice Cohoon and Carol O'Malley. A certificate for 500 hours of volunteer service during the flu clinics was presented to the nurses, Women's Auxiliary and Medical Explorer Scouts of Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Awards for over 100 hours went to Manuel Garcia Jr., Carmen Reynosa, James Scott, Susana Solis and members of the Claremont Chapter of the Red Cross, Assistance League of Pomona Valley, Claremont Colleges Health Services Advisory Committee and student volunteers, Pomona Stake Center of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, Altar Society of St. Joseph Catholic Church and Cal Poly Pre Med/Dental Club.

Lose out on unused sick leave money

Pomona police pay goes up

There is good news and bad news for Pomona police officers in the area of salaries and fringe benefits.

The good news is that officers will receive a 6½ per cent salary raise on July 1, which is already provided for in a three-year contract negotiated with the city in summer of 1975.

Some bad news might be the fact city officials are discontinuing the practice of reimbursing officers for unused accrued sick leave.

Pomona city councilmen adopted a one-year memorandum of understanding with the Pomona Police Officers Association, providing mainly for some changes in fringe benefits, since raises for this year already had been decided.

Under the agreement, policemen can base their retirement pay on the single highest salaried year. Prior to this year, officers' pensions were computed by taking the average pay of the three highest salaried years.

Police negotiators and the city also agreed to revise the grievance procedure to provide for "advisory arbitration." That means a third party can provide advice on grievances, but the decision is still left up to the City Council.

In revising the bargaining unit, all new captains and lieutenants will be designated management employes as of July 1. They formerly were included in the employes' association unit.

Police and the city also agreed to a "no-strike clause" for the remaining year of the existing labor contract. A spokesman for the police association noted that officers agreed, in addition, not to sue the city over various matters for one year.

The council adopted the memorandum of understanding after a closed executive session Tuesday night.

Plastic pot is popular

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — Clay is the most widely used material for plant containers, according to Dick Husby of Phillips Products, but plastic is gaining quickly. The average plant owner has 5.8 clay containers and 4.7 plastic containers. The plastic container market had increased 95.8 per cent over last year, Husby said.

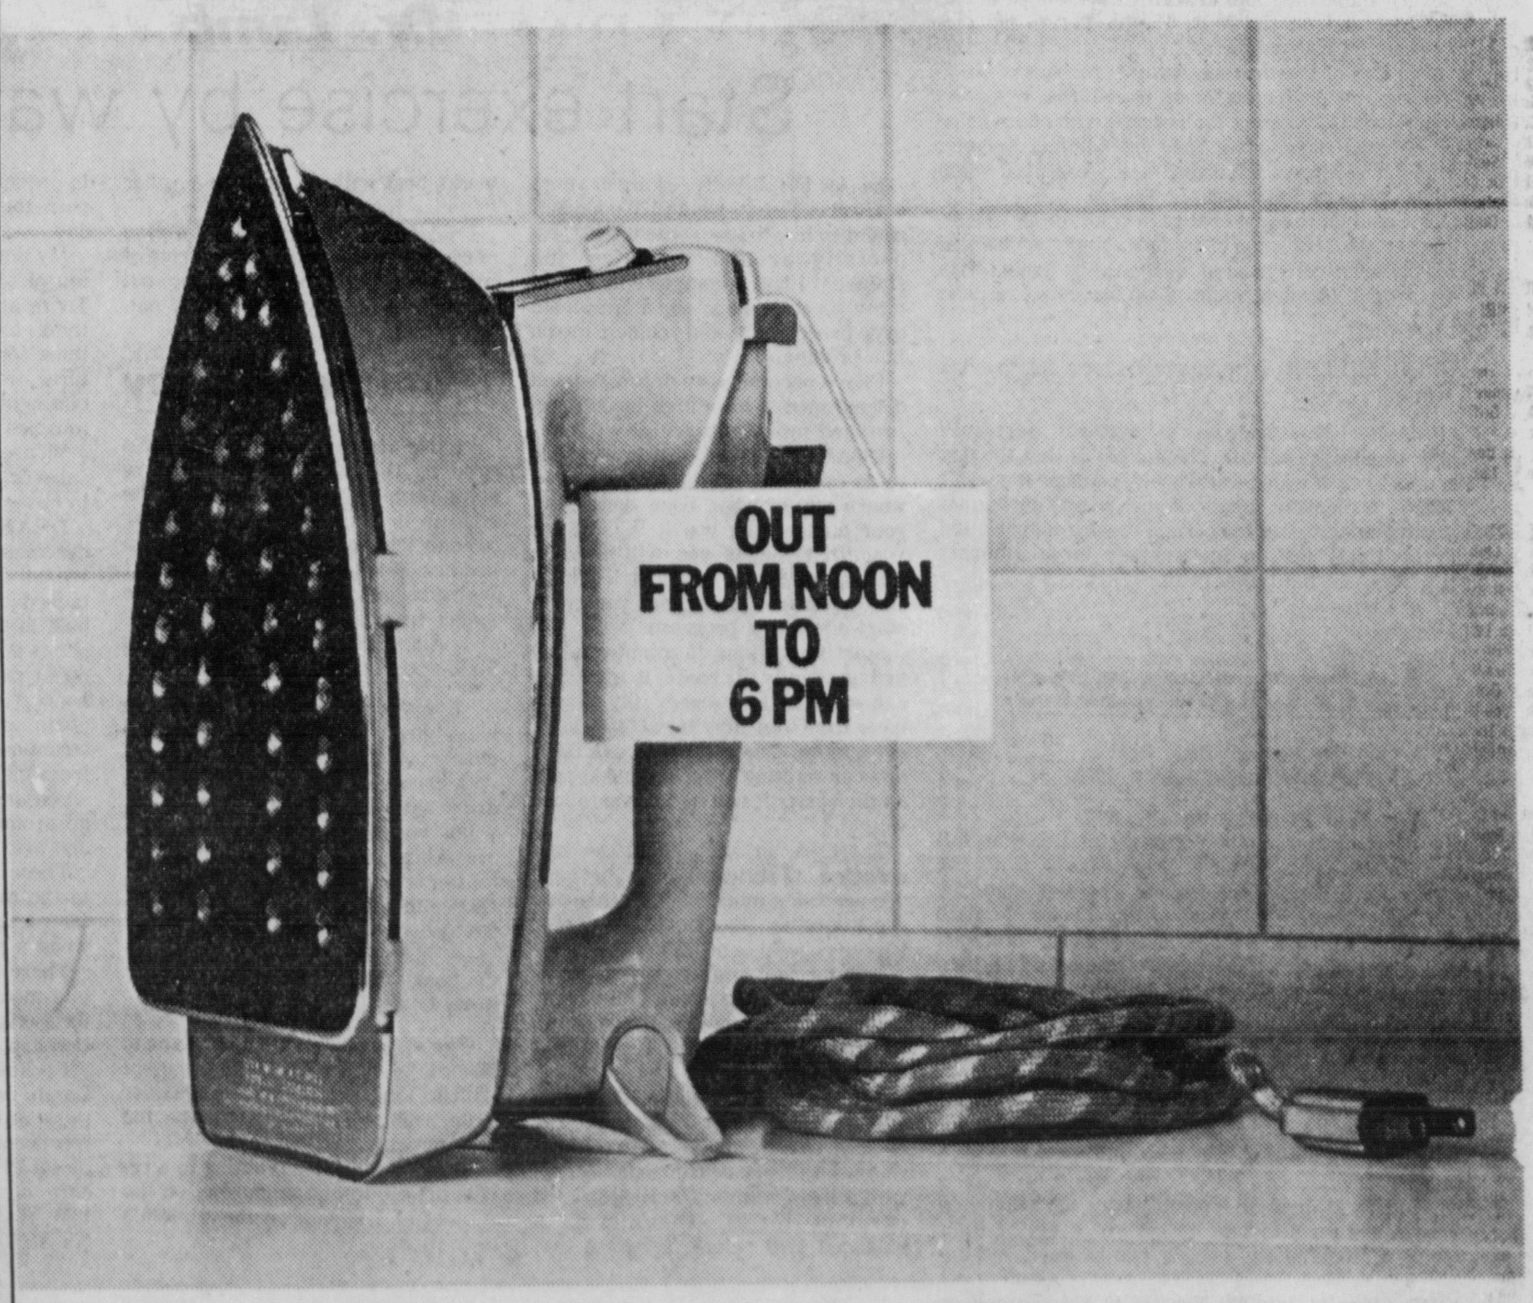
GIVE YOUR APPLIANCES THE AFTERNOON OFF.



Most of the electricity we generate is needed by factories, farms and offices—so people can make a living. The greatest demand for this electricity is during the day. You need electricity to run appliances in your home, too. And the greatest demand for this electricity is also during the day.

Here's the problem: Because of the growing demand for electricity during the day, we'll have to build more power plants. And building power plants today is more expensive. That drives up the cost of electricity to everybody.

Now there's something we all can do to help: Spread the use of electricity more evenly around the clock. Edison is working with large industrial customers to help them find ways to shift some of their electric use to the evening hours. But most people prefer to work during the day, so there's only so much industry can do without drastic rescheduling of work shifts.

It's afternoon use of electricity that's the biggest problem. So you can help by doing some of your daily routine at night or in the morning. Perhaps you can wash and dry your clothes at night. Use your dishwasher at night. Iron in the evening. Bake in the morning.

It means changing your routine a bit. But if we do use electricity wisely, it will help to hold down the cost in the future.

Harvey Mudd pioneers new program

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

Harvey Mudd College has developed a clinic program to help students gain the experience required to obtain positions in industry and government without further graduate training.

The Mathematics Clinic and Engineering Clinic are unique concepts in the field of higher education in which business and industry help sponsor actual research projects on the campus. The clinics combine a real learning experience for the students with actual problem solving for its business-oriented sponsor.

The HMC program is an engineering teaching or a mathematics education program analogous to a hospital teaching clinic for medical students.

Under the guidance of a faculty member or a fifth-year student, a team of undergraduates research and analyze all aspects of a problem under strict professional standards.

The projects come from business and industry and may involve actual current needs or be programs for which no prototype presently exists.

In addition to participating in a new approach to technical education, the client may obtain solutions to problems which exceed the time available or expertise of his permanent staff.

Among the firms participating as sponsors of clinics at the Claremont college are, in the Engineering Clinic, Bechtel Corp., Fluor Corp., Hughes Aircraft, IBM Corp., Lockheed Aircraft Serice, Procter and Gamble and Xerox Corp.

Project sponsors in the Mathematics Clinic include Rockwell International's Air Monitoring Center, Chevron Oil Field Research Co., Honeywell, Jet Propulsion Laboratory, Northrup, Pomona Valley Municipal Water District and the Los Angeles County Superior Court.

Current projects, many of which last more than one academic year, are supported by the sponsoring clients who pay a fixed fee, based upon the costs of the operation.

Engineers and managers of the client firms recently spent a day at HMC when the projects were demonstrated by the students involved.

The students' projects duplicate as closely as possible the conditions under which they will work in the future.

'Bird Watchers' enjoy big night

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

ANAHEIM — Family Night turned out to be "Bird Watching Night at Anaheim Stadium Monday.

Mark "The Bird" Fidrych shut out the Angels, 8-0, and converted the 38,551 in attendance into the Orange County branch of the Audobon Society.

Fidrych (1-2) flashed the form that earned him Rookie of the Year honors last season as a 22-year-old. That was when The Bird came out of nowhere to post a 19-9 record and sparkling 2.34 earned run average with the fifth-place Tigers.

"I really needed a win to get my head together," Fidrych said. "I was getting ahead of the hitters tonight instead of behind them and that's the key."

It was only the third start for The Bird who was grounded by knee surgery this spring.

"That's all behind me now," he said shaking his head vigorously. "I don't even think about it. It was like starting all over at first. But once I could run, I knew I was all right."

The Bird certainly looked all right Monday night. He scattered seven hits, struck out six and walked only one.

But it was his antics on the mound, the things he did before and after each inning and between pitches, that turned the fans into "Bird" watchers just as they made him a sensation last year.

When the Angels came to bat in the first and second innings, he sprinted to mound, fell to his knees and began his own landscape gardening.

He smoothed over small holes, patted down lumps and bumps and took handfuls of dirt to fill in a trench he didn't like in front of the pitching rubber.

When an inning ended, he leaped into the air throwing his hands up in jubilation as though Detroit had clinched the pennant. He congratulated a player anytime he made a good play.

When the game was over, he raced around shaking hands with all eight players on the field with him.

Watching him through binoculars during the game, you could see him talking to the ball.

Sometimes he directed it, gesturing to show it how he wanted it to perform. Whenever an Angel batter got a hit, Fidrych asked the umpire for a new baseball . . . refusing, of course, to have anything to do with a ball that disobeyed him.

When the game was over, the writers got a lesson in Bird chasing. Everyone hurried to the Detroit clubhouse only to discover that Fidrych was guesting on the Angels' post-game show.

Out of the clubhouse, through the dugout and across the field, huffing and puffing, staggered and stumbled the cream of Southern California journalism.

But as soon as he was off the air, The Bird took off for the Tiger clubhouse. Groaning and moaning, the media lurched after him.

Unbuckling his uniform pants, Fidrych raced to his cubicle, then decided he wanted a beer. Pants at half mast, he sprinted across the room and grabbed two. The pants were down around his knees by this time so he spread his legs and scuttled back to the crowd of eager questioners.

Life with The Bird must certainly be interesting. However, the Angels did not find it so amusing.

The loss gave the series to the Tigers, two games to one, and dropped the Halos back to the .500 mark at 25-25.

Detroit backed Fidrych with 13 hits, three each by Ron LeFlore and Tito Fuentes and home runs by Jason Thompson and Ben Oglivie.

Angel starter Gary Ross (2-3) was excellent for two innings but fell apart in the third. After a span in which struck out four in a row, Ross gave up four hits and two runs in the third inning.

Oglivie led off the fourth with his seventh homer. In the fifth, after allowing two runners to reach base with one out, Ross was replaced by Mickey Scott. Thompson immediately smashed his ninth roundtripper.

With Paul Hartzell back in starting rotation, the bullpen once again is a trouble spot.

ANGEL ANGLES — The Halos continue to hurt themselves with errors, both physical and mental. Ross, Gil Flores and Jerry Remy were charged with miscues. Another time with the infield drawn in for a possible play at the plate, Remy fielded Steve Kemp's slow grounder and had to race Kemp to first because no one remembered to cover.

It'll be Hartzell (1-4) vs. Pete Vuckovich (2-4) tonight as the new Toronto Blue Jays make their first appearance at the Big A. Nolan Ryan (8-5) and Jesse Jefferson (3-4) are the probables Wednesday night.

Allen returns to K.C.

Progress Bulletin
Sports
Pomona, California ■ Tuesday, June 7, 1977

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Lucius Allen comes home and Ollie Johnson moves west in a trade that gives the Los Angeles Lakers an embarrassment of first-round draft riches.

The Lakers, who were defeated by Portland in the opening rounds of the National Basketball Association playoffs, sent Allen to the Kansas City Kings Monday in return for Johnson, a backup forward, and the Kings' first and second round draft picks in 1978.

Allen, who was playing out his option with Los Angeles, would have become a free agent Monday. He signed a four year contract with the Kings. The terms were not disclosed.

The Lakers, who have three first-round picks in this week's NBA draft, will now have three more first-round selections in next year's dispersal of college talent.

Allen, a play-making guard, first gained fame as the finest player ever to come out of Kansas when he starred at Wyandotte High School in Kansas City, Kan., a decade ago.

He went on to UCLA and teamed with Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. He and Jabbar later played together at Milwaukee and Los Angeles.

"Its really going to be different," Allen said from his home in Los Angeles. "It was fun playing with Kareem all those years, but now I have a chance to come home and still play for a good team.

"I'm at the point where my family has to take preference, and my potential for establishing myself business-wise is a lot better in Kansas City. I know the people and they know me and I enjoy being with them."

Allen averaged 14.6 points in 78 games with the Lakers this past season.

"I feel that this give us the strongest nucleus we have had since the franchise moved to Kansas City," said Kings General Manager Joe Axelson. "We hate to part with Ollie Johnson, who has made a great contribution to our club, but the need for three outstanding scoring guards made the move important to the future."

The Kings are expected to draft Houston guard Otis Birdsong this week to go with Allen and Ron Boone.

"Allen will give us the ideal running mate to compliment Boone and Birdsong," said Kings Coach Phil Johnson. "He has the ability to penetrate, score and run a club. His experience, quickness and court savvy will undoubtedly strengthen our backcourt for the coming years."

Sutter can't win, but Cubs do

CHICAGO (AP) — At the rate Bruce Sutter's going, he may not win a ball game. But the Chicago Cubs relief ace could care less if he keeps pitching the way he has.

"I haven't changed, the team has just gotten better," Sutter said Monday after hurling one-hit ball over 2 2-3 innings to gain his 16th save as the Cubs defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-1.

Sutter, making his 26th appearance in 49 games, relieved Rick Reuschel, 7-2, with one out in the seventh after the Cubs starter suddenly ran into difficulty after retiring 17 batters in a row.

With one run across, runners on first and second and the Cubs leading 2-1, Sutter came on to retire pinch hitters Boog Powell and Ed Goodson to end the rally.

"I thought I'd be okay if I got out of the inning," said Reuschel who yielded only three hits, struck out seven and walked one in 6 1-3 innings. "But that's the way it's been all year. If we get in trouble after the sixth, we haven't hesitated to go to the bullpen.

"I really don't mind that much because Sutter and the rest of the guys have been doing the job."

Sutter, who has a 0-1 record despite his masterful pitching, has now given up only five earned runs in 49 2-3 innings, for an earned run average of 0.91. He'd like to pick up some victories, but he's not in a hurry.

"As long I we're winning, I'm happy," he said.

Chicago got to Dodgers starter Burt Hooton, 4-3, for two runs in the second as Bill Buckner singled in a run and Jerry Morales drove in another with a sacrifice fly. The Cubs added a run in the seventh on a RBI single by Bobby Murcer.

Reuschel yielded successive singles to Reggie Smith and Ron Cey after two were out in the the first, but got of the jam when Steve Garvey flied out. The next 16 Dodgers went down in order, before Cey reached on an error, Garvey singled and Reuschel uncorked a wild pitch to allow Cey to score with one out in the seventh.

After Reuschel walked Dusty Baker, Sutter came on to fan Powell and retire Goodson on a grounder.

The Dodgers made a final bid in the ninth when Cey singled to open the inning and Garvey reached on an error. The Cubs turned back the rally, however, when Baker fanned and Cey was caught stealing third to complete a double play. Sutter then struck out John Hale to end the game.

"We had a chance, but couldn't come up with anything," said Los Angeles Manager Tom Lasorda. "We had our men running to try to avoid the double play and put us in scoring position if Baker hit a ground ball.

"Cey being thrown out at third changed the complexion of the game," Lasorda said. "Our plans didn't work today...But maybe they will tomorrow."

The two teams play the middle game of a three-game series today with Tommy John, 6-2, going for the Dodgers against Ray Burris, 7-5.

Walton has lots of fun

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — It was the Trail Blazers' big day and 50,000 people jammed the streets of Portland to pay honor to their heroes. They even let superstar Bill Walton douse the mayor with beer.

Portland's enthusiasm knew no bounds as the city honored the players who won the National Basketball Association championship by beating the Philadelphia 76ers 109-107 Sunday.

"This is as much fun as I've ever had in any sport since I started playing when I was eight years old," Walton told thousands of basketball fans gathered at the end of a parade route that took the championship Blazers through confettistrewn streets packed with cheering Portlanders. "I can't imagine it getting any better, but I'm sure you folks will find a way to make it that way."

Robinson 'can't take any more' of Carty

OAKLAND (AP) — Cleveland Manager Frank Robinson and designated hitter Rico Carty exchanged words after the Indians' 3-1 victory over the Oakland A's Monday night, and Robinson announced he was fining the player and sending him back to Cleveland.

"Tonight was just it, I can't take any more," said Robinson.

The manager said Carty, who has a pulled hamstring which caused him to go on the disabled list last week, was "telling everyone how to manage during the game and saying how silly certain moves I made were."

After the victory, the Indians' 11th in their last 15 games, Robinson asked Carty to come into the manager's office.

"Carty just sat on his stool and said, 'I'm not going to talk to you, go away,'" said Robinson.

Earlier this season, when the Indians were going bad, Carty said at a banquet in Cleveland, with Robinson listening, that the Indians needed a new manager.

Ontario High finds head grid coach

Ontario High's search for a new varsity football coach has ended.

The appointment of Terry Roche to the vacant Ontario coaching position was confirmed Monday night by the Chaffey Union School District. Roche will succeed Doug Brooks, who had resigned the football job earlier this year.

Roche, 26, will be one of the youngest head football coaches in the CIF. Despite his age, however, he already has a sound football background.

For the past two years, Roche was head coach of Chowchilla High in Northern California. His teams finished second in the West Sierra League both years. Prior to taking the Chowchilla job, he had been defensive coach at Downey High for a year and offensive line coach at Royal High in Simi Valley for a season.

The new Jaguar mentor is a graduate of St. John Bosco High in Bellflower. He was an offensive guard at Cerritos Junior College in 1969 and 1970, and played the same position for Long Beach State for two years.

"My coaching philosophy is that football games are not won or lost on Friday night," said the new Jaguar skipper. "They're won or lost all year long. My new job will be an 18-hour-a-day, 360-day-a-year deal with me.

"There's no easy way in football. I believe the game is 70 per cent emotion and 30 per cent ability at the high school level. The key is to surround yourself with winners. A head coach is only as good as those working with him."

Roche indicated a concern over the lack of spring drills for the Jags, drills which were lost due to the coaching changeover.

"It's a definite disadvantage, no doubt about it," Roche said about the loss of the spring practices. "However, we will just have to hope to make up for lost time this fall."

The youthful mentor indicated that he will try to run a Veer T offense this fall at Ontario if it suits his available personnel.

"I'm really excited about the job," Roche said. "It's a great challenge."

Roche will also teach history and physical education at the school. He, his wife and their two children hope to settle in the local area by the opening of school in September.

Rodney Bobick killed in crash

BOWLUS, Minn. (AP) — Professional boxer Rodney Bobick was killed Sunday evening in a one-car accident near his hometown of Bowlus, in northern Minnesota.

The State Patrol said Bobick, 25, was alone in his car when it left Minnesota 238, hit a power pole and rolled. Bobick died about 30 minutes after the accident, a patrol spokesman said.

Rodney Bobick's brother, Duane, is a highly-rated heavyweight who won the bronze medal in the 1972 Olympics at Munich.

Dionne true All-Star

MONTREAL (AP) — During the 47 seasons in which the National Hockey League has named all-star teams, the Montreal Canadiens have had 70 players selected to the first team and 59 to the second, a total of 129 players of a possible 567.

The Canadiens added five to their total Monday night, placing four on this the 1976-77 first team and one on the second in the voting conducted by the Professional Hockey Writers' Association.

The four Canadiens on the first team was the first time that had happened to Montreal since 1958-59 when goaltender Jacques Plante, defenseman Doug Harvey, center Henri Richard and left wing Dickie Moore were named.

Dionne's selection was the first for a Los Angeles player to the first team while Salming was the first Toronto player to be named to the first team since the late Tim Horton gained a defense berth during the 1968-69 season.

The Maple Leafs have had 75 players chosen to the elite teams, including 33 on the first team. Buffalo has had two first and five second team nominations, the Islanders have had two of each and the Kings have had one first team and two second-team selections.

Lafleur and Shutt were the only unanimous choices—270 points on 54 first-place votes based on a 5-3-1 point basis.

Lafleur, the NHL's scoring champion during the last two seasons, and Dryden were the only repeaters on the first team. Salming, Lapointe, Perreault and Martin were second-team selections last year.

It was the third time Dryden was selected to the first team, while Robinson, Dionne and Shutt were making their first appearances on either team.

Lafleur's selection marked the first time a right wing has been a first-team star three years in a row since Gordie Howe, then with the Detroit Red Wings, was named in 196768, 1968-69 and 1969-70.

NHL meetings begin

MONTREAL (AP) — The National Hockey League's Board of Governors was to convene the formal segment of its convention today and attempt a final resolution of the continued troubles of the Cleveland Barons.

The governors were to listen to George Gund, who might be willing to purchase the Barons in partnership with Sanford Greenberg, owner of the team's Richfield Coliseum home arena.

Alan Eagleson, executive director of the NHL Players Association, said Monday he had heard that Greenberg had decided to withdraw from a reported deal. He said that Mel Swig, who bought the club from the league during the summer of 1975, would fold the franchise if that was the case.

"George Gund is supposed to fly in here," said Gordon Ritz, governor of the Minnesota North Stars. "He is going to make some kind of proposal. Then we are going to decide whether it is feasible for the club to start and finish the 1977-78 season."

The Barons lost more than $2 million last year after moving from Oakland, where they were known as the California Seals.

One of the major concerns the league has is the Barons' debt to Charles O. Finley, who sold the club to the NHL in 1974.

"If they (the Barons) default in those payments, then the other members of the league will have to pick up those payments," Ritz noted.

Once the Barons' matter was discussed, there was to be a report by NHL Referee in Chief Scotty Morrison. His report was not expected to take up much time, but the Cleveland problem would, so the governors might not get a chance to talk merger.

There was bound to be some heated words when the discussion began.

"I think there are some people on the extreme ends and there is a whole group in the middle," said Ritz. "The group in the middle wents to review any proposal. It all depends on what the proposal is as far as I'm concerned.

"I put myself in the gray area. I make the analogy that I don't want to sell my house today, but if somebody came in and doubled what I thought my house was worth, I might go for it.

"I would like to see the proposal our fact-finding committee has made with the WHA before I decide which way we are going to go."

Leading the pro-merger force is Ed Snider of the Philadelphia Flyers. The most outspoken anti-merger man has been Harold Ballard, president of the Toronto Maple Leafs.

"I have been quite disturbed about this thing they call amalgamation or expansion," said Ballard. "It's not amalgamation, it's expansion. The survey I've made shows there are seven that are definitely not interested in the WHA."

The seven teams Ballard named Monday were the Boston Bruins, Buffalo Sabres, Detroit Red Wings, Los Angeles Kings, Chicago Black Hawks, the Leafs, Colorado Rockies and probably the New York Islanders.

But Seymour Knox of the Sabres said Monday night he had not made up his mind on the matter and was going into the discussions ready to listen.

Sam Pollock, general manager of the Montreal Canadiens, was surprised "that people are going to vote yes or no about something they don't know about" after someone asked him about Ballard's stand.

"The whole thing is still in the talking stage. Everything is unofficial everywhere, but all the possibilites are still there."

Pollock would not say he favored expansion but added that "it doesn't cost anything to listen."

The main topic of discussion when Morrison makes his report will be a regulation that did not get passed by the rules committee.

Under the proposed regulation, if a fight breaks out, those not involved will be ordered to an area designated by the referees. Failure to heed the official's warning could result in a two-minute penalty.

Twelve clubs voted for the rule with five against and one abstention.

Other notable changes will see a team assessed a minor penalty and a $100 fine when wrongly accusing an opposing team's player of using an illegal stick.

An interference minor now will be given to a player who deliberately knocks a glove or helmet away from another player. This rule is similar to that governing the illegal clearing of dropped sticks.

Aside from today's governors' meeting, the Hockey Hall of Fame will announce its choices for 1977.

Hunter regains form, records second win

By Associated Press

Catfish Hunter says he was glad to find it again. Luis Tiant insists he never lost it.

Hunter's expression of relief and Tiant's vote of self-confidence were voiced after the frustrated veteran pitchers claimed long sought victories Monday night.

"Everything was working well. I kept feeling good, so they left me in there," said Hunter, who pitched a six-hitter, leading the New York Yankees to a 9-2 victory over the Texas Rangers for his first triumph since opening day.

Before his strong performance against the Rangers, Hunter had voiced fears about his future as a pitcher. "It's the most concerned I've ever been about my arm," said the former Cy Young Award winner who has been troubled by arm miseries all season.

If Hunter had doubts about regaining his old form, catcher Thurman Munson did not.

"I could tell right away that he was all right," said Munson. "I always thought he'd come back. He's too much of a competitor."

Tiant, meanwhile, was exuding confidence after combining with Bill Campbell on a five-hit, 1-0 victory over the Kansas City Royals. It was Tiant's third victory of the season, but only his first since April 30.

"I know what I can do and I do it," said Tiant. "There's nothing wrong with my arm. Year after year, they talk about my age. They said that last year and I came back and won 21 games. They knocked me last year when I got bombed. They wrote a lot of things over the winter, but I came back and pitched."

Tiant noted: "You have to feel pressure in your head. But I've been doing that to myself. Tonight, I tried to get away from that."

Reggie Jackson hit two home runs and knocked in four runs in support of Hunter's sharp pitching. Jackson, greeted with a round of boos when he stepped to the plate in the second inning of the game at Arlington, Tex., hit a Doyle Alexander fast ball into the left-field stands near the 370-foot mark.

He followed that solo shot with a sixth-inning clout over the right field wall with Chris Chambliss aboard. The 10th and 11th homers for Jackson gave Hunter, 2-3, a 3-0 lead and the eventual winning run.

The Yankees chased Alexander, 6-3, during a five-hit, four-run uprising in the seventh inning that included doubles by Carlos May, Mickey Rivers and Willie Randolph.

Red Sox 1, Royals 0

Carl Yastrzemski belted a home run in the seventh inning, providing the winning run for Tiant, who gave up just four hits before Campbell took over in the eighth.

Tiant was in constant trouble in the early innings, due to control problems. It was only Tiant's fourth lifetime victory in 13 decisions against the Royals.

Yastrzemski's homer, his ninth of the year, spoiled a solid pitching effort by Dennis Leonard, 3-6, who surrendered just five hits.

White Sox 9, Twins 5

Richie Zisk's fourth single drove across the deciding run and Oscar Gamble followed with a three-run homer in the 12th inning, giving Chicago its victory over Minnesota.

Zisk's hitting backed a good relief job by Lerrin LaGrow as the White Sox moved within one game of the division-leading Twins in the American League West. The loser was Ron Schseler, 2-3, the fourth Minnesota pitcher, who was chased after Zisk's single scored Alan Bannister from second.

Orioles 5, Brewers 2

Homers by Billy Smith and Lee May, coupled with the fivehit pitching of Rudy May, paced Baltimore over Milwaukee. Smith hit a solo home run to highlight a two-run first inning and May slugged a two-run shot in the fourth for his ninth home run of the year and his seventh in eight games.

Indians 3, A's 1

Pinch hitter Larvell Blanks broke a tie with a two-run single in the eighth inning, leading Cleveland over Oakland. Righthander Pat Dobson, who went into the game with an 0-5 record and a 7.24 earned run average, struck out seven and walked one in 7 1-3 innings in earning the victory. He allowed six hits before needing relief help.

Kinser moves into 2nd spot

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — Sheldon Kinser has moved into second place in the U.S. Auto Club sprint car standings, 18 points behind Tom Bigelow.

Kinser did it with a victory Sunday in the 40-lap feature at the Action Track. James McElreath finished second, Greg Leffler was third, Gary Bettenhausen fourth and Steve Chassey fifth.

Rain cuts Palmer's Open bid

By The Associated Press

Arnold Palmer and 128 other golfers saw rain cut short their charge for 40 berths in the prestigious U.S. Open tournament later this month. The massive field at Charlotte, N.C. was to have played 36 holes Monday to fill the spots allotted top finishers in the regional competition, but thundershowers kept all but a few from completing play.

Bob E. Smith of Hawaii was the top early finisher, totalling 139 for a two-stroke lead over George Archer and John Lister of New Zealand. Palmer was another stroke back. Forrest Fezler, Vic Regalado, Barry Jaeckel and John Schlee were four strokes behind the leader.

Play was to resume Tuesday, as was competition at Los Angeles, Washington, Atlanta, Ann Arbor, Mich., New York and Memphis for the 260 golfers contesting 42 places in the prestigious Open. which will be played June 16-19 at the Southern Hills Country Club in Tulsa, Okla.

A total of 41 players are exempt from qualifying for the Open. Among them are the last five Open and PGA champions, the 25 top money winners on the 1976 tour, and this year's top 10 money winners through the closing of entries April 27.

Play concluded Monday at the six other sites where 322 non-exempt players raced for 67 places at Denver, Chicago, Kansas City, Cincinnati, Johnstown, Pa., and Fort Worth, Tex.

The four berths at Kansas City were filled by Ron Streck of Tulsa, Okla., Steve Spray of St. Louis, Vince Bizik of Overland Park, Kan., and Bill Hall of St. Louis.

Jerot seeded

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — One seeded player was upset Monday night in the third round of men's competition at the $15,000 National Racquetball Championships.

Steve Jerot of St. Louis, seeded seventh, lost to unseeded Bill Thurman of Riverside, Calif., 18-21, 21-20, 11-4.

The top seed, Marty Hogan of St. Louis, was extended before eliminating Stan Wright of San Diego, 18-21, 21-7, 11-2.

Dave Bledsoe of Memphis, Tenn., seeded second, had no trouble in disposing of Jim Burnay of San Diego, 21-3, 21-1.

The No. 3 seed, Charlie Brumfield of San Diego, downed David Fleetwood of Memphis, 21-15, 21-16.

Craig McCoy of Riverside, Calif., the fourth seed, topped Alan Kent of San Diego, 21-15, 21-19.

Women's competition begins today. The tournament runs through Saturday.

Mitic injured

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Ilija Mitic, the all-time leading scorer in the North American Soccer League, is back on the San Jose Earthquakes' injury list and won't play for a month, the club learned Monday.

Mitic missed six games because of a pulled groin muscle, played in three games late last month but missed last weekend's game in Minnesota. Dr. Mayfield Harris, team physician, said, "Ilija tried to get back into action too soon."

Mitic, 36, has scored 93 goals in eight NASL seasons.

N.L. honors Rogers

NEW YORK (AP) — Righthanded pitcher Steve Rogers of the Montreal Expos, who pitched the second one-hitter of his career last Friday, beating St. Louis 2-0 with 10 strikeouts, was named National League Player of the Week Monday.

Rogers, who allowed only a third-inning single by Mike Tyson en route to raising his record to 7-4, is leading the NL with 108 innings pitched, eight complete games and 83 strikeouts. He also has an earned-run average of 1.92.

Eckersley honored

NEW YORK (AP) — Cleveland Indians right-hander Dennis Eckersley, who pitched the season's second no-hitter in beating California 1-0 on May 30 and barely missed matching a record for hitless innings, was named American League Player of the Week Monday.

Eckersley, 7-3, who had held Seattle hitless through the final 7 2-3 innings on May 25, silenced them again for 5 2-3 innings on June 3. The 22 1-3 innings of hitless ball left him two-thirds of an inning shy of Cy Young's 1904 record.

For the week, Eckersley was 2-0 with 15 strikeouts in 15 innings and a 0.60 earned-run average in that span.

Yanks recall Clay

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — The New York Yankees recalled right-handed pitcher Ken Clay from Syracuse Monday and optioned Gil Patterson, another right-hander, to the International League farm club.

Clay was 5-1 with a 1.91 earned-run average and five complete games in 10 starts with Syracuse. Patterson, who joined the Yanks last April 18 when Catfish Hunter went on the disabled list, was 1-2 with a 5.34 ERA in eight games.

Jets hire Kensil

NEW YORK — Jim Kensil, Pete Rozelle's right hand man since 1968, resigned as executive director of the National Football League and became president of the New York Jets.

Gebert defeated

BRUSSELS — Australian Barry Phillips-Moore, using a homemade racquet, downed Frank Gebert of Germany 6-3, 6-1 in the first round of the Brussels Grand Prix tennis tournament.

Alexander wins

NOTTINGHAM, England — John Alexander of Australia defeated Tomas Koch of Brazil 6-2, 6-4 in opening round action of the John Player tennis tournament.

Top qualifier

PORTLAND, Ore. — Marshall Holman was the leading qualifier in the $60,000 Portland Open Professional Bowling tournament as the 128-man field was cut to 24.

Yaz, Fisk lead All-Star voting

NEW YORK (AP) — Boston Red Sox teammates Carl Yastrzrmski, a 13-time All-Star selection, and catcher Carlton Fisk amassed the most votes for the 1977 All-Star team in the first weekly tabulations, baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said Monday.

Balloting for the July 19 game at Yankee Stadium continues through July 4. Pitchers will be selected by the AL All-Star manager, Billy Martin of New York.

Yastrzemski, an outfielder, led all players with 131,131 votes and Fisk had 117,244. Fred Lynn, another Boston outfielder, was third in the balloting with 103,879 and still another Boston star, shortstop Rick Burleson, was fourth with 96,431, more than double the 45,317 votes for the runner-up shortstop, Milwaukee's Robin Yount.

Second to Fisk among catchers is New York's Thurman Munson with 86,188. The third outfielder in the early voting is Boston's Dwight Evans with 75,800. George Brett of Kansas City leads the third basemen with 77,107 to 66,040 for Cleveland's Buddy Bell.

Rod Carew of the Minnesota Twins, a 10-time All-Star selection, leads Boston's George Scott in first base voting, 70,554-68,587. The voting for second baseman is also close with Don Money of Milwaukee at 68,230 and Willie Randolph of New York at 64,215.

Soccer camp slated at Chaffey College

Chaffey College soccer coach Frits Rosenveldt will be offering a summer soccer camp at the Alta Loma campus this July and August.

The camp will be run in three sessions: July 18-22, July 25-29 and August 1-5. Tuition for each five-day session is $75 per student. This fee includes all instruction, activities and lunch each day. Enrollment in each session is limited so interested youths are asked to apply immediately.

The camp will place emphasis on learning sound soccer skills. All participants will be placed in groups according to age and ability. Instruction sessions will be scheduled for both mornings and afternoons. Instruction will include game situations, one-on-one, small-sided games and scrimmages. PROMOTING OLYMPICS — Swimming stars who won medals in Olympic competition meet to promote sales and competition to bring added impetus to sport. Left to right are Don Schollander, Steve Furniss, Shirley Babashoff, Micki King, Gary Hall, Mark Spitz.

Top swimmers join forces to help sport

LOS ANGELES — Ten of the top swimmers and divers in the history of the sport have joined forces in a project that promises to shape the future of swimming around the world.

Team Arena, justifiably called "the best swim team in the world," consists of: America's Don Schollander, Mark Spitz, Shirley Babashoff, Gary Hall, Micki King and Steve Furniss; Italy's Klaus Dibiasi and Novella Calligaris; Sweden's Ulrika Knape; and Great Britain's David Wilkie. They have combined to win an incredible 44 Olympic medals, set 83 world records, and be individually honored 57 times as World Swimmer or Diver-of-the Year.

Their goal is as awesome as their list of medals and accomplishments.

Each member of Team Arena desires to give back to swimming and diving some of the knowledge, insight, and experience that they gained during their compeititve careers, and at the same time help raise money for their country's Olympic program. To this end they have established a three-year plan, culminating with the 1980 Olympics, which features a two-fold national swim program to personally reach the young swimmers of the world who someday might be representing their country in the Olympics.

"Each of us has a tremendous amount of expertise in our own particular swimming or diving event," said Don Schollander, the unofficial spokesman for the American group. "And each of us would like to see the United States' swimming program continue to grow, develop and hopefully improve in its teaching technique.

"We feel that through Team Arena we can accomplish all of these goals and at the same time help support our Olympic Team."

The United States project will begin immediately. The initial part of the program consists of a nationally distributed Team Arena "Swim for Gold" booklet with a chapter written by each member of the team. In each chapter will be the detailed training habits, techniques, and motivational methods employed by the 10 athletes. Rather than talk strictly about the mechanical requirements for each stroke or dive, the book will concentrate on how each member combined those mechanics with his or her own personal system to become a world champion.

Blazers pocket $21,346

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The Portland Trail Blazers earned $277,500 for winning the National Basketball Association championship in their best-of-seven series with Philadelphia.

Each of the 12 players on the championship team will get a check for $21,346.15 as his share of the purse, a Blazer spokesman said.

He said a 13th share would be divided evenly between trainer Ron Culp and assistant coach Jack McKinney. The team management said it would contribute to Culp's and McKinney's shares to bring them up to the full $21,346.15 each.

Steve Scott eyes European trip

Steve Scott, America's premier miler and 1,500 meter specialist, has his mind set on spending a good share of the summer in Europe.

A victory in the 1,500 meter race at the AAU National Championships, which will be held Thursday to Saturday at UCLA's Drake Stadium, would enable the UC Irvine junior to pack his bags.

Scott, a product of Upland High, will face a rugged field that includes Kenya's Wilson Waigwa, Steve Foster of the Florida Athletic Association, Mike Manke, runnerup in the AAU championships last year, Paul Cummings (Tobias Striders), Olympian Mike Durkin (Chicago Track Club), former Garden Grove prep ace Mark Schilling (San Jose State), Tom Duits (Western Michigan) and Ray Flynn (Tennessee State).

Waigwa, running for Texas-El Paso, beat Scott in Saturday's finals of the NCAA 1,500 meter race. The Kenyan ran a 3:39.89 to Scott's 3:41.33.

The weekend before that, Scott won both the 1,500 and the 800 at the NCAA Division II finals with times of 3:47.5 and 1:51.2.

Scott was also runnerup to Waigwa at the Penn Relays, even though Scott's 3:55.1 was the eighth all-time best by a U.S. athlete. Waigwa's time was 3:53.8.

A victory for Scott this weekend will earn him a spot on the touring U.S. team that competes in the World Cup Games Sept. 2-4 in Dusseldorf, Germany, and the Pacific Games next December in Canberra, Australia.

"We've got the hustle and the muscle... and that spells performance!"

We're proud of our century-old track record.

There have been a lot of changes since the Golden Spike was driven—but not in our dedication and pride to provide shippers and the public with the finest service.

It is one of the reasons we are known as the big power railroad. It takes a lot of power to provide the schedules to meet today's fast moving marketing needs.

To do so, we initiated such time-saving innovations as run-through arrangements with connecting midwestern and eastern railroads.

To back up our hardware are the finest railroad professionals in the world—and that gives us the hustle 'n muscle to serve you better than ever!

A bona fide star

Benson just breezin' along

By STAN MIESES

It's no secret that George Benson is doing remarkably well these days, and will never have to play a jazz basement again. His last two albums, "Breezin'," and "In Flight" are bona fide hits, and George Benson is now a card-carrying star. He was recently the centerpiece of an unusual billing that his manager and a New York promoter worked up called "Benson X Four", which I reviewed last week.

GEORGE BENSON

George's range of musical interests from a solo jam with fellow guitarists Les Paul, Bucky Pizzarelli, and Gabor Szabo at the Metropolitan Museum of Art; a duo with singer Minnie Riperton at the Palladium; an evening with the Dance Theatre of Harlem, Benson's first outing with a theatrical troupe; and a finale with some funky jazz masters including Grover Washington Jr.

Originally, the idea was to showcase Benson's records on different nights; a "White Rabbit" night, "Breezin'," "In Flight," and a fourth jam session, but George and his manager reasoned that promotion of his old records would not receive 100 per cent support from his new record company, Warner Brothers. So, the idea was scrapped in favor of a more broad-based exposure.

That's the way this artist is thinking these days. At last he's making big money for the company and they're being very nice to him. He'd like to keep it that way. If Benson labored with his "dream band" (Tatum, Chambers, Jo Jones, Cifford Brown) he might not draw flies. He labors no more.

Can you blame him? "A man of my years has the capability of doing things more sophisticated than most of what you hear on AM radio," he said, summing up his current ambition succinctly.

George Benson has paid his dues. He's learned the ropes of playing for a living from the bottom up. But the kind of music he prefers isn't doomed to eternal dues-paying, certainly not by the player. Benson had a lot of faith that his music would someday reach a mass market audience. "When Wes Montgomery died," he recalled, "I became a hot jazz item. There weren't too many players with my attitude, you see. There was a vacuum. I was willing to combine music. There were jazz players who wouldn't play anything but jazz, rock players who weren't able to play anything but rock, and in between there was me, who wasn't too proud not to play jazz, with more knowledge (I read that: chops) than the players — I saw a way to build a career."

Let's backtrack for a moment. George was a ripe 19 when Jack McDuff's band rolled into his hometown of Pittsburgh one night in 1963. McDuff's guitar player was leaving the band. Benson brashly auditioned and made an agreement on the spot with McDuff. George lasted two and a half years with Brother Jack, and says now that the bulk of his guitar playing growth came in this period.

"I couldn't play improvisations worth a damn when I first joined up, I didn't know harmony, I had no chops. But I knew how to enhance the group sound, and Jack liked the way I accompanied him. I made him sound good."

Later, after several neglected albums, Benson signed with Creed Taylor, who had produced Wes Montgomery's most commercial efforts on A&M Records. He was also the man who popularized bossa nova, Getz-style, on that same label. Benson's first recording with Creed Taylor was "The Other Side of Abbey Road," which was, at least from the packaging point of view, the first concerted effort to break Benson across the board. "We never knew what it was like to sell jazz records," said Benson. "The only one who did really was Miles (Davis). We put ourselves in the hands of a producer with a popular track record.

"Some diehards think it's a perfect crime, but to me Creed Taylor's concept (which evolved into CTI Records) was a move in the right direction. Why work, work, work, and not get paid? True, at CTI we constantly battled with creativity and making money at the same time, but he took us out of a category, and made us appeal to a lot of people."

Brahms festival slated

The Southern California Brahms Chamber Festival, featuring instrumental ensembles, voice, chorus, organ and piano, will be held in Bridges Hall, Pomona College, at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Friday and Saturday and at 7 p.m. Sunday.

Nearly one hundred pieces of music will be heard, including seldom-heard works such as "Songs of Mary" for a cappella chorus, two Soldiers' Songs for male chorus, "Gypsy Songs" in the original solo quartet version, and Book Two of the Paganini Variations for solo piano.

The concerts Wednesday and Saturday will be devoted to vocal solos and ensembles. The Friday concert will be instrumental chamber music, and the Sunday concert will offer choral and organ music.

Performers will include Joan Zajac, Jane Heschel, Paul Harms, Daniel Schultz, Thomas Schultz, James Low, James Hurd, Samuel Van Ducen, Roger Cantrell, James Kanter, Margaret Wooten and Roger Lebow.

Market activity

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Dow Jones industrial average struggled to hold above the 900 level early Tuesday as the stock market headed lower in sluggish trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow average, off more than three points at 899 earlier, was off 2.20 points to 900.87 shortly before noon EDT. The closely watched blue-chip average fell to 898 last week, but rebounded.

Many analysts have contended that if the Dow fell below 900, it would trigger a sell off. But other observers were encouraged that pattern failed to evolve last week.

The market was plagued by a number of uncertainties. There were reports Saudi Arabia planned to raise oil prices. But there were other dispatches in which the world's largest oil producer denied the charge.

Further, some investors were disturbed by a Commerce Department report that said businesses plan to increase plant and equipment spending by 7.7 per cent this year. That was below the 9 to 10 per cent the Carter administration has said was needed.

Market breadth figures reflected the investors uncertainties and fears. Declines led advances, 647 to 397, among the 1,596 issues crossing the tape. But there were 552 unchanged issues.

Volume at the two-hour mark amounted to about 8,100,000 shares, compared witth 7,860,000 traded during the same period Monday.

Du Pont, which accounts for about 9 per cent of the Dow average, was off 1¼ in the early going. International Harvester was off ⅝.

Inmont, trading for the first time this week, was ahead 2¼ to 23½. The company's directors Monday rejected a $25-ashare tender offer for its shares by Esmark. Esmark said it plans to continue with the offer. Esmark stock, trading exdividend, was off ⅛.

Avis Corp., which climbed 5 points Monday, was ahead up ¾ to 21 in active trading. Norton Simon has made a $20.25-a-share tender offer for Avis shares. Norton Simon was off ⅛.

Twentieth Century-Fox was the the most active NYSE issue, off ⅝ to 20½. The stock, which sold earlier this year at 9⅞. has risen sharply in heavy trading the past two weeks The firm Monday reported its movie "Star Wars grossed $5.2 million in the first 11 days of showings.

Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing was the second most active issue, off ⅝ to 48 following a block trade of 110,300 shares at 48. Deere & Co. was third, off ½ to 31½ in trading that included a block of 128,000 shares at 31½.

Sea Containers was ahead ¾ after the company said it plans to raise its dividend payment to 15 cents from 6½ cents a share.

Prices were lower in moderate trading of American Stock Exchange issues. American Safety Equipment was ahead ¾ in active trading following reports TRE Corp. was considering an $8-a-share tender offer for all its shares. TRE was ahead ⅜ on the NYSE.

KIDCO SHOVELS IT IN — Bill Watt, left, co-developer of San Diego Country Estates, shovels horse manure along with KIDCO president Dickie Cassna Jr., 12. Assisting are Dickie's sisters, Bette, 11, Nene, 9 and June, 14. They also are officials in the KIDCO organization.

Tycoon tykes

Gophers, manure pay off big

RAMONA (AP) — Dickie Cessna, age 12, is making a small fortune killing gophers and shoveling horse manure.

When Dickie and his three sisters are out on a gopher job, they put up a sign saying, "Gopher control by Kidco. We never miss." They say their poison is a secret formula.

Dickie has become quite a celebrity. The mailman brought 100 letters in one month, including one from Walter Cronkite and another from Barbara Walters. A newspaper in Holland and another in Hong Kong ran stories about him. The kids at school ask him for big loans.

He's even a big hit at businessmen's luncheons and recently told the Lions Club, "If we had more people working, we wouldn't have so many on welfare."

In Los Angeles, about 100 miles up the coast, they not only want Dickie to catch gophers but also to star in the movies.

Kidco, Inc., set up by their father a year ago in the West Indies, has Dickie as president, Ne-Ne, 9, vice president, Bette, 11, secretary and June Cole, their 14-year-old half sister, treasurer. They kill gophers for $1, sell manure from their father's horse boarding operation and now are starting a subsidiary called Kidco Water Co., delivering bottled water.

They are selling their motor scooter with a wagon hooked on and are buying a truck with their earnings. They plan to pay an older brother to drive it.

"Wow!" is Dickie's word for it all.

The money goes into a trust for college.

California tax authorities have already hauled the kids in and asked them to explain why they made up to $3,000 a month without a seller's license and failed to charge a sales tax.

In their application for a seller's permit, Dickie answered: List your real estate—"None." Fixtures and equipment— "None." Estimated monthly expenses—"None." Rent—"None." Total—"None." Records kept by—"self." Landlord—"None." Type of business—"Manure."

The permit was approved.

Cessna, 42, and his wife, Jean, have six older children.

"I don't preach to them," Cessna said in a recent interview. "But we want to keep them busy, to teach them the value of a dollar."

After the publicity over taxes, Dickie did 21 live radio interviews in one day. Two television production companies are talking to him. Coppola Productions interviewed him in Hollywood to play the part of a 12-year-old boy in a motion picture to be filmed in Rome. No decision has been made on that.

Dickie has also been offered a condominium by a Los Angeles area land developer who said he will make the down payment for them and all the monthly payments if they help him in promotions on weekends. Says Cessna: "The kids think it's too lucrative a deal to pass up."

They are paying cash for their own truck because "the manure business has grown fantastically and the kids just can't do it in their trailer."

After school, the kids work two or three hours shoveling manure and shavings from the horse stalls owned by San Diego Country Estates, the development where their father works. They sell manure at $3 a cubic yard but give special discounts for big orders.

Landscapers buy most of the manure and haul it off themselves.

The kids draw $25 each from a Ramona bank account as spending money every month and get a weekly allowance for chores. Cessna refused in an interview to say what the allowance is or what Kidco's profits come to.

They'll make "a normal business markup" in taking a wholesaler's water after school ends next week and delivering the gallon bottles to anyone who will buy them, Cessna said.

The manure business has doubled in six weeks to 55 regular customers, and gophers are being buried right and left.

A major real estate firm in Los Angeles County is talking about flying them up every weekend to rid gophers from an apartment complex. Already, Cessna figures they earn $25 weekly at $1 a head. He put $385 in their Cayman Islands bank account one month when they cleaned the gophers out of an infield horse track.

When a truck was needed, they paid their father $20 a day, which Cessna confides he put secretly in their bank account, and another $5 to an older brother to do the driving.

The kids figured they'd save money if they bought their own equipment so they bought the motor scooter, which is kept busy about 12 hours a week. No more $20 to their father.

"We borrowed the money and axed Dad right out of the deal," said Bette with a businesswoman's chuckle.

Penney sales up

PITTSBURGH (BW) — J.C. Penney Co. Inc. has reported net earnings of $29.9 million for the 13 weeks ended April 30, which equaled the earnings of the like 1976 period.

Net income per share amounted to 46 cents, compared with a record 47 cents in 1976, when there were about 1.3 million fewer shares outstanding.

As previously announced, the department store and catalogue chain's sales for the 13 weeks rose 7.4 per cent to a record $1,862,000,000 from $1,733,000,000 last year.

Real estate

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) —Trustees of Bank-America Realty Investors, a real estate investment trust, announced earnings of $3,118,000, or 88 cents per share of beneficial interest, for the nine months ended April 30.

The earnings include capital gains of $1,759,000, or 50 cents per share.

The nine-month results compare with net earnings of $658,000, or 10 cents per share, for the like period a year ago.

Net earnings for the third quarter were $418,000, or 12 cents per share, including capital gains of $88,000, or 2 cents per share. Net earnings for the like quarter last year were $357,000, or 10 cents per share.

Airliners sold to two countries

LONG BEACH (AP) — McDonnell Douglas Corp. will be building jetliners for airlines in Ghana and the Netherlands.

Ghana Airways, a national airline, has ordered a DC-9 Series 50 twin-jetliner for regional routes along the west coast of Africa, a McDonnell Douglas spokesman said Monday.

The new jet, which will carry 139 passengers in a single-class cabin, is to be delivered next spring. Ghana Airways is currently using a DC-9 leased from Hawaiian Airlines for those routes, the spokesman said.

Martinair Holland ordered a fourth DC-10CF convertible freighter for its international passenger and cargo operations, according to the spokesman. He said that Martinair, a worldwide nonscheduled carrier, is to receive the $35 million trijet in fall 1978.

Minimum wage rates for this project as predetermined by the Secretary of Labor are set forth in the special provisions. If there is a difference between the minimum wage rates predetermined by the Secretary of Labor and the prevailing wage rates determined by the State for similar classifications of labor, the Contractor and his subcontractors shall pay not less than the higher wage rate.

Pursuant to Section 1773 of the Labor Code, the general prevailing rate of wages in the county in which the work is to be done has been determined and the Department has listed these wage rates in the Department of Transportation publication entitled Equipment Rental Rates And General Prevailing Wage Rates, dated May, 1977.

RESOLUTION OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF WALNUT VALLEY WATER DISTRICT SPECIFYING THAT ALL FUTURE ELECTIONS SHALL BE CONDUCTED AS A RESIDENT VOTING DISTRICT RATHER THAN A LANDOWNER VOTING DISTRICT

Schabarum says Workers' Compensation rights flaunted

The flaunting of workers' rights makes a mockery of the Workers' Compensation program written into governmental personnel regulations more than 50 years ago, according to Los Angeles County Supervisor Pete Schabarum.

"It has become such a costly sucker-program that amendments are required, and we hope there will be some resolution to that direction within the next few weeks," he added.

Schabarum's assault on the generosity of the program began several weeks ago when it was disclosed the cost had jumped over the last four years from $10 million to $50 million.

The numbers of claimants increased proportionately to the level to which 2,000 county workers now are on disability and another 8,000 are seeking compensatory payments.

In his campaign for correction of the system, Schabarum cited yet another Workers' Compensation judgment in which a county fireman, retired since 1961, received an award in 1976 for a heart attack suffered eight years after he left the job.

His claim on Workers' Compensation, funded by county taxpayer money, was filed as an apparent result of a warning by his firefighters' union that statues were running out, he said.

"If you are retired and suffer from any form of heart trouble," said the letter, "you must file a claim for benefits with Workers' Compensation Appeals Board before Jan. 1, 1977 . . ."

The fireman who won the award had left county employment on a 30-year service retirement in June of 1961.

He worked, following his retirement, as manager of a family-owned hardware store until his heart attack in 1969, according to Schabarum.

Joyce Brothers

Find another doctor

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: My mother's been going to a new doctor for the past four months about a potentially serious condition. She swears he's drunk half the time. I thought she was exaggerating but when she brought home some unusual medication, I decided to pay him a visit.

It was obvious from the alcohol on his breath that he had been drinking even though it was early afternoon. I myself drink, but I don't like to think my mother is not getting the best of attention. — B.C.

DEAR B.C.: I suggest you find another doctor immediately, and report your findings to some other doctor you know and trust. Most of us like to think of doctors as being immune to such ailments as alcoholism, but this isn't the case. Actually, according to the American Medical Association, doctors are far more likely than others to turn to alcohol or drugs, usually prescription opiates, sedatives or stimulants.

The drug addiction rate among doctors is estimated at between 30 to 60 times that of the general public.

One out of every 20 doctors in the U.S. suffers from a psychiatric disturbance severe enough to damage his or her ability to care properly for patients. Dr. Herbert Raskin, a Detroit psychiatrist, observed that doctors seem more vulnerable to mental troubles than other occupational groups. Many of the same psychodynamics that initially propelled doctors toward their profession, are the same ones that predispose them to emotional disturbance, alcoholism and drug abuse.

Most doctors work under great pressure and a constant demand for perfection. It's not surprising that some members of the profession succumb to the strong temptation to escape through drugs.

Responsible doctors are becoming somewhat less reluctant to report colleagues who need help and are dangerous to their patients.

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: My husband always tells me that the reason I have difficulty accomplishing what I set out to do is that I do things at the wrong time. He says the best time to make plans is when you get up in the morning. That works well for him, but morning is my worst time. First of all, it takes me over an hour to wake up. This is the hour he says I waste. I'm willing to work out a schedule because I want to improve, but where do I begin. You're busy and seem to be able to work out your time. How do I do it? — H.H.

DEAR H.H.: First, your husband's time schedule, your best friend's, or mine, might not work for you at all. How people use and feel about time is very individual. I don't believe anyone should try to force himself to live on someone else's schedule, except, in the sense that we all have some jobs that can't be individually times.

Obviously, you're a person who functions better later in the day, or perhaps even after dinner, while your husband seems to be a morning person.

Some studies indicate that time appears to pass much more quickly for women than for men. One reason may be that women, especially if they're homemakers, often have much more varied tasks than men whose tasks usually fall into one category.

It may be that your lists of things to accomplish are too long. This is a big mistake because when you become discouraged, you are apt to do less than you can, rationalizing that since you are not going to accomplish everything, you might as well put off the whole thing.

Set realistic goals for yourself. Then, you can have the satisfaction of accomplishing more rather than less than you'd planned. Find your own pace and your own best hours. Since you and your husband are on different time lengths, there will have to be compromises when you're together, but your time alone should be all yours.

Volunteers aid school for the deaf

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 150 men and women volunteers are working as classroom assistants, in after-school recreational and cultural programs, as drivers and tour escorts and in offices at the Lexington School for the Deaf in the borough of Queens.

About half are undergraduate and graduate college students in special education and related fields, according to Elizabeth Kuhlman, director of volunteers. Others are women who live in the area, and retired people and adults who have experienced deafness in their families or elsewhere.

Clothing care

One of the most expensive mistakes homemakers can make is to tuck seasonal clothing away when the weather changes without proofing it against moths, say the experts at the Johnson Wax Biology Center in Racine, Wis.

Clothes to be stored should first go to the cleaners to get out the dirt and food stains moth larvae love so well; then they should be sprayed with Raid Moth Proofer. The spray contains Perthane which provides protection for up to one year.

Q. "WHAT CAUSES VOLCANOES?"

JANNA ERICKSON
PILOT MOUNTAIN, OR

A. VOLCANOES ARE FORMED WHEN GREAT PRESSURES WITHIN THE EARTH FORCE HOT, MELTED ROCK AND GASES OUT THROUGH CRACKS IN THE EARTH'S SURFACE

© 1977 by NEA, Inc. T.M. Reg. U.S. Pat. Off. DICK ROGERS

A volcano is a vent, or hole, in the earth's crust through which lava and gases are thrown out in eruptions.

The earth's seemingly rigid crust actually consists of several giant pieces, called plates, which make up the continents and ocean floors.

Underneath the rocky plates, in the earth's mantle, is a layer of hot, melted rock. As they slowly slide around on top of the hot, syrupy mantle, the plates grind and crush together. Friction from the grinding plates causes heat, which adds to the heat of the molten mantle.

The heat builds up beneath the surface until melted rock and gases expand and force their way out through cracks.

The hot materials may build up a cone-shaped mountain called a volcano. Many volcanoes do not throw lava high into the air, but push it out in a quiet lava flow.

Craters of most erupting volcanoes smell like rotten eggs. Escaping sulphurous gases cause the odor.

Square fit good idea

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Sometimes putting a square peg in a round hole is a good idea, say computer designers.

Machines force square pins into round holes at Honeywell's computer manufacturing center here. Since the holes — lined with a soft metal — are smaller than the pins, the fit is tighter, ensuring better electrical connections for sensitive computer parts.
